

China to free 3 Americans

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Thomas Downey, jailed on spy charges by Chinese Communists for nearly half his life, will be given his freedom Monday.

Downey, 42, was imprisoned more than 20 years ago. At the time he was a young Yale graduate working for the Central Intelligence Agency.

He is to cross the border at Hong Kong and head for home—the beneficiary of a thaw in U.S. relations with the Communists.

President Nixon expressed elation over the release of Downey and two other American prisoners, the last known to be held in China.

Their release was announced Friday at the White House with special emphasis on the humanitarian side. A bachelor, Downey is going to the bedside of an aged mother so critically ill that doctors were unable to give her the good news. But to diplomats, Downey's release illustrates that as a result of Nixon's trip to China in February 1972, Nixon can make a personal appeal directly to Chou En-Lai and expect quick results.

The two other Americans, Air Force Capt. Philip E. Smith of Roodhouse, Ill., and Navy Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn of Houston, Minn., owe their freedom to the Vietnam ceasefire. Smith, now 36, was taken prisoner after he was shot down in the Gulf of Tonkin in 1965. Flynn, 35, was downed in 1967 after his plane strayed over the Chinese border with Vietnam.

Downey has been a prisoner of the Chinese since November 1952 when a plane carrying him and Richard Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., was shot down over Manchuria during what Peking later described as a spy mission to supply Nationalist agents.

Fecteau, who had been sentenced to 20 years, was released before Christmas in 1971 after serving 19 of them.

Nixon asks toughness on crime

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said today he will ask Congress to promptly restore the death penalty for certain federal crimes and require mandatory sentences of life imprisonment without parole for habitual drug traffickers.

In a nationwide radio address disclosing the tough legislative package he will send to Capitol Hill next week, the chief executive opposed legalizing the possession and use of marijuana.

The President said his proposals will revise the entire federal criminal code and "give us tougher penalties and stronger weapons in the war against dangerous drugs and organized crime."

"It will substantially raise current limits on monetary fines and it will restrict the present absurd use of the insanity defense," Nixon added.

He disclosed that Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst has drafted a law restoring the death penalty for certain federal crimes "consistent with the Supreme Court's recent decision ..."

The high court, in a 5 to 4 decision last June, ruled that the death penalty, as it is imposed under current law, is unconstitutional.

Nixon gave only scant detail on his proposal, saying it "will provide capital punishment for cases of murder over which the federal government has jurisdiction, and for treason and other war-related crimes."

The President said he is personally convinced that "the death penalty can be an effective deterrent against specific crimes."

It is "not a deterrent so long as there is doubt whether it can be applied," Nixon said, adding that "the law I propose would remove this doubt."

"The potential criminal will know that if his intended victims die, he may also die," he continued.

"The hijacker, the kidnapper, the man who throws a fire bomb, the convict who attacks a prison guard, the person who assaults an officer of the law, all will know that they may pay with their own lives for any lives that they take."

Nixon said he had directed Kleindienst to submit the death penalty statute as a separate proposal "so that Congress can act rapidly" while studying other parts of his legislative package.

He said the package would include tough new laws for narcotics violators and will make it more difficult for suspected heroin pushers to be freed on bail.

The legislation, Nixon said, would require a minimum five-year sentence "for anyone convicted of selling heroin;" a minimum sentence of 10 years to life "for major traffickers in drugs." And, for offenders with a prior conviction for a drug felony, "it will require life imprisonment without parole."

"This is tough legislation," he said, "but we must settle for nothing less. The time has come for soft-headed judges and probation officers to show as much concern for the rights of innocent victims of crime as they do for the rights of convicted criminals."

As for marijuana, Nixon cited recent proposals to legalize its possession and use, but declared his opposition.

He said he hopes states will make sanctions "against the use of marijuana more uniform, more reasonable." Then he added:

"But there must continue to be criminal sanctions against the possession, sale or use of marijuana."

In the noon-hour radio address he taped at the White House before heading to his Camp David, Md., retreat on Friday, Nixon repeated his budget proposals for treatment and rehabilitation of drug addicts and said he wants to increase federal aid to local law enforcement from $1 billion to $1.2 billion.

Throughout the address, Nixon hit hard on the permissiveness he said encourages crime.

"When we fail to make the criminal pay for his crime, we encourage him to think that crime will pay," he said.

And, referring to a phrase that played a prominent role in political campaigns during recent years, he declared:

"There are those who say that law and order are just code words for repression and bigotry. That is dangerous nonsense. Law and order are code words for goodness and decency in America."

Twisters slash 2 Texas towns

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

Violent Tornadoes churned through central Texas overnight and the state Department of Public Safety said one person was killed and about 80 others injured. Two small towns were heavily damaged.

Hardest hit were the communities of Burnet and Hubbard, situated about 150 miles apart between Dallas and Austin. Twisters also struck or were spotted near three other towns as much of the state experienced stormy weather, marking the start of the tornado season.

Public safety officials said a 6-year-old child was killed in Hubbard and there were two other possible victims. More than a half dozen people were injured.

The Hill County Sheriff's Department said about a third of the town of 1,500 was destroyed.

Property damage was extremely heavy in Burnet, although authorities said there were no confirmed deaths. About 10 injuries were reported.

Chief of Police Elgin Shelburn estimated that up to 300 homes and businesses were damaged or destroyed in the resort town of about 3,200 which is about 150 miles southwest of Hubbard and 50 miles northwest of Austin, the state capital.

Bill Wilcox, owner of a Burnet funeral home, estimated at least 75 per cent of the town's businesses were hard hit.

Tornadoes also struck or were seen at the Grape Creek Community about eight miles northwest of San Angelo, near Blackwell and near Waco.

Two Burnet hospitals and school buildings were spared.

"It just struck without warning with a tremendous roar sometime in the early morning," Wilcox said.

His bedroom and another bedroom where his children slept were undamaged. Heavy boards were hurled through an adjoining living room and bathroom.

The tornado path was about a mile long and 300 to 400 yards wide.

The funnel hit first in the southwest part of Burnet, then swept with full force through the center of the business section which is clustered around the intersection of U.S. 281 and Texas 29. Every business building within a block was severely damaged.

A big structural steel sign at a filling station bent double with the top of it touching the ground.

The tornado then roared northeastward into a residential section.

"If it hadn't been for the headboard on my bed, I would have been killed," said Miss Seleta Martin of Burnet. The roof of her home disappeared and her small brick veneer home collapsed about her.

"The headboard fell on my chest and face, and protected me. It took at least 30 minutes for me to get out of the debris," she said. She suffered a cut on the forehead and said her chest was sore as she wiped moisture from furniture being taken from the ruins.

"I'm happiest because they found my glasses in the middle of all that stuff — not a scratch on them," she said.

At Bobby Riley's radiator shop in Burnet, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Riley, were sleeping in a metal frame bed when the roof collapsed.

"It seemed like we lay for hours in the rain before they could get us out, the elder Riley said.

Talks falter at Wounded Knee

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
Associated Press Writer

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — In the wake of another outburst of gunfire, attorneys for militant Indians occupying Wounded Knee say they would seek a court order today for the removal of federal agents surrounding the village.

Negotiations to bring peace to the historic hamlet seized 12 days ago were bogged down, but more talks are scheduled today.

Gunfire rattled around Wounded Knee for 30 minutes late Friday night. A spokesman for the 250 Indians who have been encamped in Wounded Knee since Feb. 27 said the shooting started after tracer bullets landed near the village's Roman Catholic church.

The Indians said the tracers were fired by some of the 300 federal marshals and FBI agents who have sealed off Wounded Knee.

Larry Leaventhal, an attorney for the American Indian Movement (AIM), the organization involved in the takeover, said "several hundred rounds" were fired.

There were no reports of injuries.

Meanwhile, a fresh team of lawyers headed by William Kunstler of New York is scheduled to resume negotiations today with officials of the Justice and Interior Departments.

And Ramon Roubideaux, chief negotiator for AIM said he will appear in U.S. District Court in Rapid City at 4:30 p.m. EST to ask that the federal blockade be removed.

"No national emergency has been declared and the federal agents have no right to be there," Roubideaux told newsmen.

Roubideaux and other AIM lawyers spent nearly 12 hours Friday trying to work out final terms for a peace after the government announced it had reached an agreement in principle with the invaders.

Roubideaux blamed the failure of negotiations on the rigidity of federal officials.

Roubideaux said a final resolution was almost completed when the government demanded that the Indians set a specific date for withdrawal from the village.

"The agreement which was almost reached provided for a moratorium (cease-fire) until 6 p.m. Monday. Nothing was said about a withdrawal date. Then the government made a counter-offer that would require AIM to withdraw on Monday," Roubideaux said.

Federal officials had no comment.

The only casualties reported thus far in the 12-day occupation occurred during a 10-minute gun battle Thursday night, just at the time a cease-fire went into effect.

Two Indians were wounded, one in the hand and one in the leg.

It was at Wounded Knee in 1890 where 146 Sioux — most of them old men, women and children — were killed by U.S. troops in the last major battle of the Indians wars. Thirty-one soldiers died in the encounter.

Students at Wabeno high protest transfer

WABENO, Wis. (AP) — About 150 Wabeno High School students marched peacefully 10 miles to Lakewood Friday in protest of the transfer of 240 students to White Lake High School.

The transfer took place after the communities of Townsend and Lakewood broke from the Wabeno School District in a disagreement over Wabeno's plan to build an elementary school. The communities' attempt to join the White Lake School District was upheld last month by the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

Momentum builds from meat boycott appeal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two women who started a chain-letter appeal for a national meat boycott the first week of April say it has drawn such an overwhelming response that they're convinced it will work and drive meat prices down.

In the three weeks since the pair formed an organization called Fight Inflation Together (FIT), they estimate 3,000 persons have written them pledges promising to abstain from eating meat every Tuesday and Thursday and the entire first week of next month.

They say FIT clubs have been started in about 40 cities and they hear of more every day.

"Our phone doesn't stop ringing," one founder, June Foray Donovan, an actress and voice of television cartoon characters, said Friday. "It's sweeping the country."

"We've got a tiger by the tail," said the other, Arline Mathews, a commercial artist. "It's moving so fast it's amazing."

The pair got the idea while talking on the telephone and sent out letters to friends, enclosing form letters to be sent to at least five friends out of state.

"People all over the country tell us they've been wanting to do something and didn't know how," said Mrs. Donovan.

FIT is nonpartisan and nonpolitical, its only aim being to reduce meat prices, the founders said.

"It's irrelevant to us who is culpable," said Mrs. Donovan. "We believe in the domino theory. If we attack at the retail level it's eventually going to have a chain reaction and get at whoever is the culprit."

Mrs. Donovan is the voice of Rocky the Flying Squirrel in the Bullwinkle cartoon series on television, as well as Granny in the Tweetie and Sylvester cartoon series.

GOP fund committee returns $100,000 to disenchanted donor

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas oilman whose $89,000 contribution became involved in the Watergate affair told President Nixon's re-election committee he wanted his money back — he got it.

And a Texas developer who gave the President's 1972 campaign a $305,000 I.O.U. while his land empire was tumbling got the note canceled, the committee announced Friday.

The oilman is Robert H. Allen of Houston, who wrote the committee Jan. 23 saying "that I would have been unwilling to make even a small contribution had I had any idea that activities such as the 'Watergate Affair' were being conducted nor would I have been willing to serve in any fund-raising capacity."

The land developer is Walter T. Duncan of San Antonio, who put himself near the top of 1972's political donor list even as he faced increasing financial, legal and governmental troubles.

Allen, in his letter to chief fund-raiser Maurice Stans, identified himself as the source of four checks totaling $89,000 which came to the Committee for the Re-Election of the President from a Mexico City lawyer.

After passing through the hands of committee counsel G. Gordon Liddy, the checks wound up in the Miami bank account of Bernard L. Barker.

Liddy was convicted and Barker pleaded guilty in connection with the June 17 Watergate break-in at Democratic National headquarters. The incident is under investigation by a Senate committee. Liddy, Barker and five others are awaiting sentencing.

Allen gave a total of $100,000, which the committee refunded in response to his request.

Allen wrote Stans that he was asking for the money back with "considerable regret," but that he had been embarrassed by developments. He said the press made "preposterous and bizarre assumptions concerning the purpose" of his routing the money through Mexico. It was done for privacy, anonymity and convenience, Allen said.

Investigators for the House Banking and Currency Committee who pursued the $89,000 found it "cloaked in mystery," according to their report in September.

Duncan had opened his generous political contributing with two donations totaling $300,000 to the presidential nomination bid of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey this spring.

He turned his attentions to Nixon in August. But rather than contributing cash, he gave a $305,000 note which the Nixon money people sold to a bank at a small discount.

Duncan wrote the committee in January saying he would be unable to pay off the note. So the committee repaid the bank and canceled the note.

The committee's latest quarterly report filed with the Office of Federal Elections showed it has $4.7 million still on hand from the successful Nixon campaign. It received an additional $246,036 in contributions during January and February, weeks after the election.

throws and the tension continued to build. The Redmen turned the ball over almost immediately after an in-bounds play started, and the persistent Patriots went to work on offense again.

Tim Kelley missed a field launching, but East retained the ball with six seconds left. After final instructions from Gossens on a time-out, the Patriots inbound the ball via Mark Bleier. He fired to Martin in the right corner, and after dribbling free of the defender, Craig arched the perfect shot that sent East's cheering fans into a frenzy and valiant South to its seventh straight defeat at the hands of AHS-E.

Even before the fantastic finish, Martin was the catalyst of East's strong showing, as he came up with one crucial basket after another. He more than doubled the total of any South player, as he manufactured 19 points. Martin's stellar performance included a 7-for-8 shooting night from the field.

East's Jim Vandenberg was the only other double-figure scorer — with 10 points — and he was easily the game's dominant rebounder. Vandenberg hauled down 15 rebounds, helping East grab a 36-33 edge under the boards.

Callaway and Kelley captured six and five rebounds, respectively, and Mark Bleier was an expert playmaker — ringing up seven assists.

For the John Schuman-coached Redmen, long-shooting Gary Lau was high with nine points. All-Fox River Valley Conference performer Dave Derus scored eight points before fouling out.

Deadly shooting enabled East to take early charge. The Patriots clicked on seven of their first 10 floor efforts to pile up a 14-6 first quarter lead. Martin drove the baseline to break a 4-all tie, with 3:31 left in the period to establish a lead East was destined to hold until late in the fourth quarter.

In the second quarter, the Patriots became more deliberate on offense and tried only six shots. They didn't score from the field until Martin threw in a 20-footer two seconds before halftime. However, free throws had enabled East to open an 11-point edge (19-8). Meanwhile, East's 1-2-2 zone was keeping the Redmen at bay and forcing them to shoot from the outside.

The quick Redmen became more aggressive in the second half, but East continued to hold sway, boosting the 9-point halftime lead to 11 (25-14, 27-16 and 29-18).

The South comeback started in earnest in the fourth period, as Nolden, Dave Tetschlag and Lau brought the Redmen within three (33-30) with 4:35 remaining. Bleier fed Vandenberg, and he delivered for a 35-30 lead. But a Lau free throw cut it to four points.

South then took advantage of two successive East turnovers. Nolden banged in a rebound, and Lau hit from 20 feet, and it was 35-all with 2:27 to go. The Patriots regained the lead, at 2:02, as Callaway scored from underneath on an assist from Bleier. With 1:22 left, Meyer connected from 15 feet. The score was knotted again, and the stage was set for the dramatic extra session.

The Redmen had a 16-15 edge in field goals but made only six of 13 free throws while East sank 10 of 21. The Patriots, who tried only 34 field shots, finished with a 44.1 per cent accuracy mark. South put the ball up 55 times but found the range only 28.2 per cent of the time. South committed only six turnovers while East had 18.

Ice is out on Wolf River

FREMONT — Wilmer the Wolf Watcher has made his annual journey. The ice left the Wolf River Friday, March 9, at 12:12:27 p.m., according to Wilmer, as that's the time his raft triggered the electric clock as he passed downstream here with the ice floes that are leaving the river.

Steven Timm, a teacher at Weyauwega, received the $100 top prize for estimating the ice out time closest to its actual departure. Timm's time was 11:50:35 a. m. Other winners were Bill Bohnert of Menasha, second, and John Liesner, Bonduel, third.

The consolation prize, awarded by drawing because boats traveling the river channel before the river is totally open could hasten the departure of Wilmer, went, to Westphal Food of Bonduel.

According to Wilmer's history, spring will come to the village not earlier than March 9 nor later than April 8. This year tied for the earliest date with 1966, while last year and 1965 both had the latest date for the ice to make way for spring.

If 1974 were to follow the pattern, the ice would leave the Wolf on March 30, as it did in 1967. Using a different pattern, however, persons could look for it to stay until April 8 again.

There were 27 estimates with the March 9 date this year. It is expected that these three dates will be heavy favorites in the future.

Ice out time in Fremont is closely watched from neighboring states by anxious anglers waiting to start the fishing season here. However, the lakes and bayous still have ice in them and as it leaves, it often blocks the river channel and causes the boating angler to take to shore.

Former valley man sets up apparatus for audio-visual teaching

KIMBERLY — A hobby of Tim Van Himbergen, teacher at New Berlin High School and son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Van Himbergen, 436 N. Main St., Kimberly, has resulted in his school having the most advanced audio-visual equipment in Milwaukee area schools.

Van Himbergen, working with two helpers during the Christmas vacation, wired a control unit to equipment owned by the school, permitting an instructor handling large groups to run seven different audio-visual machines by remote control.

Thus an instructor at a podium can operate two movie projectors, three film strips, and two slide projectors without leaving his lecturing spot. The units may be operated singly, all at one time or in any combination.

Although used primarily by the social studies and English departments, equipment is also available to other departments or student groups. The project was completed at no cost to the school district, according to Van Himbergen, who also noted that the next best equipment in the area could operate two slide projectors simultaneously.

Van Himbergen majored in broadcasting and English, but his hobby of putting around with electricity made the central remote control system possible.

David DeBruin named outstanding debater of Kimberly squad

KIMBERLY — Sue Davies was named captain of the Kimberly High School debate squad for next year and David DeBruin was chosen this season's outstanding debater at a recent banquet for the team.

Coach A. L. Peckham presented letters to 16 students and participation awards to eight others. Earning their third letter were Mary Cotoir, Sue Jansen and Mary Weiland. Second letters went to Eugene Leiternann, Jim Nirschl and DeBruin. Earning letters from the first time were Joe Bast, Don Vandenberg, Tom Frassetto, Debbie DeBruin, Juli Binsfield, Bill Wippich, Jeff Huith, Tony Czarnik, Sue Davies and Debby Van Nuland.

Participation awards went to Mike Sensiba, Vicki Vosters, Karen Whitney, Sue Brown, Barb Janssen, Jane Oudenhoven, Patty Deeg, Jean Fritz and Anna Nirschl. A total of 71 persons attended the dinner.

Little Chute awards bids for street improvements

LITTLE CHUTE — The village board Wednesday night awarded bids totaling $98,984 for street improvement work on N. Wilson and Buchanan streets.

Work includes approximately 11,120 feet of curb and gutter and blacktopping. C. I. Hughes Inc., Appleton, was awarded the curb and gutter contract with a bid of $50,513. Crushed stone bid of $19,895 went to Murphy Construction, Black Creek, and the same firm was awarded the bid for two-inch blacktopping of the street at a price of $28,576.

At the same time the board scheduled a public hearing for 8 p.m. March 27 at which time assessments will be made on the street project.

McMahon Associates, Inc., village engineers, were authorized to advertise for bids for relocation of 550 feet of sanitary sewer on N. Wilson Street, installation of approximately 500 feet of new sewer lines on Railroad and Jackson Street and 2,000 feet of sewer on Elm Drive and the site of a proposed street south off Elm Drive.

An ordinance was adopted governing attempts to fraud hotels, restaurants and similar businesses which calls for the first offense to be made a charge under local statutes with a second offense to be charged under state statutes. The law was passed to enable the village justice to hear cases in which arrests are made locally.

As recommended by the fire and police commission, Ronald E. Verhagen was appointed to fill a vacancy on the auxiliary police force.

The board also adopted a resolution commending local police officers and those of neighboring communities who assisted in a mass arrest Feb. 25 involving members of a motorcycle gang who have been charged with raping two Appleton girls at a local residence.

Kaukauna resolution backs, hits Assembly bill on superintendent

KAUKAUNA — The City Council has adopted a resolution, to be forwarded to representatives in Madison, listing both support and objections to an Assembly bill which would allow the state superintendent of schools to establish a primary and secondary guaranteed valuation for school districts.

The council approves a section of the bill which would result in increased state aids to the Kaukauna School District, but objects to provisions which would require the local school district to assume the state share of the Wisconsin Teachers Retirement and the provision which would place limitations on tax levies made by cities.

A second resolution adopted makes the city clerk or his deputy the agent for the city in matters pertaining to the Wisconsin retirement fund.

Insurance executive hits bar no-fault plan

WAUSAU, Wis. (AP) — Calling the no-fault insurance proposal of the State Bar of Wisconsin a no-fault law "is misleading and deceptive," an executive of Employers Insurance of Wausau told a legislative hearing Friday.

The bar proposal is "nothing more than compulsory accident insurance limited to automobile accident cases," Roland Wendorff, general counsel for the insurance firm, said.

He testified before a hearing by the Senate Judiciary and Insurance Committee that attracted about 150 persons.

"The only way to get rid of inefficiency in the present system is to get more premium dollars to the injured party," Wendorff said. "We have to eliminate the nonserious cases where the insurance companies pay more than the case is worth in order to settle out of court."

But Richard Tinkham of Wausau, appearing for the bar in favor of its bill, said it would provide quick, out of court settlement for about 90 per cent of small personal injury actions without services of a lawyer.

He criticized the threshold concept of the governor's NoFault Legislative Advisory Committee proposal, and said it would be more expensive than the bar association plan.

The task force plan would provide that persons could not file lawsuits unless medical expenses from one accident exceeded $1,000 or there was disfigurement or disability, but Tinkham called threshold an "artificial barrier."

It will "encourage persons to go around to different doctors building up medical expenses to $1,000," he said.

State Sen. William Blablich, D-Stevens Point, and Wendorff disagreed. Both said a threshold would save money because small claims would be barred from litigation.

The bar association proposal would promote litigation and "continue the practice of forcing insurance companies to make expensive payments in nonserious cases," Wendorff said.

Hints from Heloise

'In' and 'out' days

Dear Heloise:

For people who feel they are doing too much running around, shopping, banking, going to the cleaners, the dentist, etc., I have a suggestion.

I try to have "in" days and "out" days. I guard my "in" days as something precious to do housework, extra baking, painting, etc.

On an "out" day I try to do all my errands that day. If a doctor's appointment has to be made I choose Tuesday, an "out" day. When I make my week's menus I think in terms of whether it is an "in" day, time to cook a pot roast, or an "out" day, time for hot dogs.

It doesn't always work but aiming for it helps me keep more organized and I seem to avoid the panicky "no time" feeling.

Eleanore Imbornoni

This panicky "no time" feeling that you mentioned seems to be a peril of the times. It seems to affect us all no matter what our circumstances might be.

But, you know what I admire about you? Everyone's always talking about it but you have tried to do something to alleviate the situation.

I wonder if some of our other readers might not have worked out little tricks of their own to ease the pressures.

We would certainly be interested in hearing. So why don't you do just that — write to me in care of your local newspaper and tell us how you handle the problem of too little time.

Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

Knowing how to cure your family of answering "whatever you want" to the every-night question "What would you like for dinner?"

Recently after getting the same answer to the question I made up my mind to do something about it:

I served tuna casserole! The next night I got the same answer so we had tuna again and so on for three more nights. Finally my husband asked "What's with the tuna? We've had it for five nights."

So I simply explained. "You told me to make whatever I wanted and I wanted tuna — and you will continue to eat tuna each night until you start suggesting other dishes when I ask you what you want to eat."

Thank goodness the next night they suggested roast beef! I personally love tuna but not for five nights in a row!

But, those five nights were worth it. Now my family is cured!

Joan Gass

Dear Heloise:

Here is a hint for those of your readers who consider themselves bass fishermen, avid or part-time.

There are fishermen who are especially against the use of any type of snap swivel arrangement on their line. Consequently, having to cut and retie their line at each lure change is time-consuming.

It might be interesting to note that a good bit of time is taken up by digging around for an implement to cut this line.

This problem is easily remedied by utilizing a pair of toenail clippers suspended around your neck by a string or chain (must have a key chain hole in one end), which makes it easily accessible, and these clippers cut the line much easier than having to fold the line over a knife blade. . .

Steve Phillips

P.S. Heloise, you can come open my tackle box right now and the first thing you will see in my box is the toenail clippers.

Dear Heloise:

If any of your readers have a reluctant milk-drinker (as I do), maybe this might ease the situation.

I bought an inexpensive small milk creamer which is bright blue with pretty flowers and dish-washer safe.

I got mine for 25 cents as it was half of a broken set.

My son pours his own milk into his little cup and can't wait to finish it so he can pour more.

I only do this at one meal a day so the novelty won't wear off. It has worked for a year now and the amazing part is that he never spills a drop.

Carol Morgan

This column is written for you. . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of this newspaper. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible. Copyright, 1973

County hog farmers form new pork promotion group

Outagamie County farmers who raise hogs decided Thursday to make a new start at selling their product after the break-up of a 15-county promotional organization earlier this week.

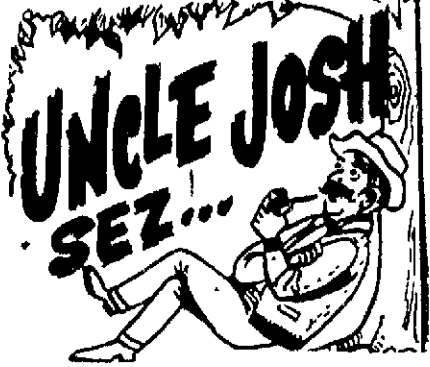

The Northeast Wisconsin Pork Producers Association, a branch of a state group, was disbanded Tuesday after members decided the promotional organization had largely failed in its aims.

Now a county group has decided to try to unite pork producers in a new county organization called the Outagamie County Pork Producers Association Cooperative. Its goal will be to work with consumers and increase pork sales.

It also will function as a part of the National Pork Producers Association, the umbrella organization which once sponsored the Northeast organization.

Robert Griffiths, route 2, Black Creek, was elected president of the county organization. He said a membership drive March 19-23 will attempt to strengthen the organization.

The split-up of the 15-county Northeast group was good, he said. "It was the right thing to do, I think we can accomplish much more as a county group than we did as the Northeast."

sometimes folks think the Lord don't wanna answer their prayers when the real trouble is, they give up askin' too soon.

The infant county organization has an estimated 60 members and hopes to secure at least 25 more by the end of the month, he said.

He said major activities will not be pushed during 1972 as the organization forms, but said it may be active during the Outagamie County Fair. "We're going to try to put on a few promotions. We're going to look into, possibly, a booth at the fair and promote pork that way."

The new organization is designed to encompass purebred hog raisers who sell breeding stock, commercial pork producers who market hogs and feeder pig producers who sell their young pigs for finishing elsewhere.

The Nickels for Profit check-off program which finances national pork promotion affected efforts, will not be by the break-up of the Northeast unit and reorganization of the county organization, he said.

Membership cards are being planned and promotional literature may be made available. Griffiths said the pork organization has lagged behind similar groups in the county that attempt to market lamb and wool products and dairy products. "Most of your other producer organizations seemed to be more active."

Police & fire beat

BLACK CREEK — A 6-year-old pedestrian suffered a bruised hip when he was struck by a car driven by John E. Miller, 62, Black Creek, near the intersection of State 47 and Railroad Street about 4 p.m. Thursday.

Outagamie County police said Miller was southbound on 47 and apparently didn't see David Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Schroeder, Black Creek, enter the roadway.

An Appleton couple was injured in a two-car accident at the intersection of Brewster and Durkee streets about 9:45 p.m. Thursday.

Lawrence J. Buss, 59, 428 E. Brewster St., received a minor chest injury, while his wife Elinor, 56, sustained head, arm and chest injuries. The other driver, Curtis M. Dobberke, 18, 5744 Larsen Road, Oshkosh, was not injured.

Police said the Buss auto was headed east on Brewster and the Dobberke car south on Durkee.

Slam-bang bidding occasionally works

There was no problem in the play of today's hand. Declarer gratefully won the first diamond trick in dummy, drew trumps and ran the rest of the top diamonds to get rid of his losing hearts. He could then show his hand and claim 13 tricks.

ble. West must guess the right suit to lead, and the odds are about 2 to 1 that he will pick the wrong side suit to open.

Now that we have given the seal of approval to North's slam-bang bidding, let's examine West's opening lead. The bidding should warn West that the slam can be beaten only if the defenders can win the first two tricks. For this reason, West's best chance is to lead his ace. If it wins the first trick, he will then be in a position to decide whether to continue or to shift to a different suit.

Daily Question

Partner deals and bids one spade. The next player passes, and you hold: S-K Q 10 6 5 H-10 6 5 D-9 C-A K J 6. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two clubs. You plan to jump to four spades at your next turn, thus indicating great strength in the black suits. If partner can control the red suits, it is up to him to make a move toward slam.

Froehlich bill would protect broadcast firms

A bill supported by U.S. Rep. Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, would give the Federal Communications Commission authority that the U.S. Supreme Court ruled two years ago the FCC now lacks.

It also would give radio and television broadcast firms greater security against having their licenses revoked.

Froehlich is a co-sponsor of the bill which would give the present holder of a broadcast license preference over competing license-seekers when the present holder has shown "good faith" in efforts to serve the community.

The Supreme Court ruled in June, 1971, that an FCC policy which then favored present license-holders went beyond authority granted by Congress in the Communications Act of 1934.

Froehlich said Congress must act to clarify licensing procedures upset by the ruling. "Otherwise every licensee is open to harassment by any group that wishes to obtain a license. He said license renewal procedures "should encourage continuity" when the license-holder has "substantially met the needs and interests of the community."

Besides favoring renewal of the present licensee's broadcast permit when he has met those conditions, the bill would grant licenses for five years rather than the present three-year term, after which renewal proceedings are mandatory.

Read label before using product

MADISON — "Many ordinary household products can cause serious injury, or death, if used improperly," according to Charles Ahlgrim of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture's product safety section.

Several cases of eye injury from improper use of cleaning substances have been brought to his attention. "In each case, label instructions were not followed," he said.

Ahlgrim said manufacturers are required to list potential hazards on the product label and to give instructions for proper use.

The Federal Food and Drug Administration has reported that poisoning and injury can result from improper handling of medicines, cleaning and polishing agents, petroleum products, cosmetics, pesticides, turpentines, paints and detergents.

Some products, when mixed with other substances, can form hazardous gases or fumes through a chemical reaction. This is particularly true of cleaning agents such as bleach and ammonia, most of which carry specific instructions not to mix these substances.

Ahlgrim advised consumers to read the label before using any household product and to keep such items out of the reach of children.

Embarrass breaks loose

Cars traveling U.S. 45 through New London Friday left a wake as the Embarrass River backed up into the city. Lenny Markman used waders, lower photo, to move supplies from the food stand along U.S. 45 on the city's north side. The river is expected to crest sometime today. (Post-Crescent photo)

Embarrass River overflows into New London

NEW LONDON—U.S. 45 on the north side of the city was blocked off at about 3 a.m. today by city crews after the swollen Embarrass River surged beyond its banks, causing flooding throughout the 5th Ward, the lowest section of town.

Basements were reported flooded and sanitary sewers were backing up as the river rose to 10.1 feet and crept gradually upward as a result of spring-like weather, heavy rains and flooding earlier in the week along the Pigeon River which flows into the Embarrass.

A street department spokesman said this morning that the Embarrass is expected to crest today, but predictions of thunderstorms today was cause for concern and plotting emergency measures to keep the waters in place.

The water over 45 (Shawano Street) was more than two feet deep this morning and traffic was being rerouted. Waupaca County Highway X west of the city reportedly had one lane closed in a couple of places because of the floodwaters.

The Embarrass started to rise about noon Friday. Ice on the river has broken up but is jammed at bridges, the street department spokesman said, adding that there was no danger of damage to the bridges.

Neenah boy loses hand

A 15-year-old Neenah boy, who lost his left hand and suffered an eye injury in a Thursday evening bomb explosion, was reported in good condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Winnebago County police said the victim, David Rowan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Rowan, 455 Springroad Drive, Neenah, was pounding on the end of a small homemade bomb in the basement of the Gerald Van Oudenhoven residence, 1656 Jacobsen Road, Neenah, when the bomb exploded.

Rowan's hand was amputated and a metal fragment reportedly lodged in one of his eyes.

A second youth, Henry Van Oudenhoven, 15, in whose home the explosion took place, was taken to St. Elizabeth for an examination but was not held for treatment when it was learned he apparently had escaped serious injury.

Police said the two boys were attempting to make the projectile, consisting of a four-inch pipe containing gun powder.

Rowan apparently was attempting to pound a hole in one end to insert a fuse when the explosion occurred about 7 p.m.

Two neighbors, Brian Becker and Robert Hrubes, who were working on a car at the Hrubes residence, 1720 Jacobsen Road, heard the explosion and called an ambulance.

Chilton sends help to Nicaragua

BY ALICE CONNORS
Post-Crescent Correspondent

CHILTON — Lift trucks roared and people watched happily as supplies ranging from seeds and alternators to pumps, engines and tillers were loaded aboard a Chilton Canning Company truck off on its first leg of the trip to Somoto, Nicaragua.

The truck moved the supplies to the Schneider Trucking Company at Green Bay, from where they will be trucked to New York and placed on the National Catholic Relief Services ship.

The truckload of equipment and supplies marks the close of a two and a half month drive by the Rev. James Vennix, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, and State Rep. Gervase Hephner (D-Chilton) to get help to Father Andre Weller, a Chilton native serving Somoto as a Capuchin Missionary.

In December, Nicaragua was hit by an earthquake just 100 miles from Somoto. As a result refugees from Managua sought refuge in Somoto, devouring what small food supply existed. Residents of Somoto themselves were quite desperate for food because of a severe drought, and starvation was imminent.

Father Weller, who was in almost daily contact with his mother, Mrs. Arnold Weller, by means of ham radio, told of his problems and begged her to find help for his people.

Mrs. Weller turned to Hephner for help.

WAUPACA — The Board of Education will cover a full agenda at its regular meeting Tuesday, including recommended contracts for teachers in the 1973-74 school year, action on the hiring of five new staff members for the board members said they found that the daily, per patient cost for persons requiring less than skilled care was considerably higher at the health center than at Riverview and private nursing homes. Riverview is a county operated, 57 bed nursing facility.

Supv. Eugene Higgins of Appleton, who recently suggested closing the health center, said it appears its operating costs are too high when compared with similar facilities.

Welfare Director James E. Stamp said about half of Wisconsin's counties operate nursing homes, but some are getting out of the business for economic reasons.

Many of the county homes are old and the cost of remodeling to comply with rapidly changing state codes is substantial, Stamp said.

However, a nursing home can be a profitable private venture, he said.

Two private firms, one a national chain, are seriously considering building nursing homes in Appleton, Stamp said. "It appears very, very likely one will come in," he explained.

He and Vennix got several programs under way. They both contacted seed companies, went to the local Future Farmer chapters and the county 4-H clubs. Many companies were contacted for irrigation equipment, tillers, pumps and engines and all contributed generously.

With all this equipment, especially the irrigation pumps, Father Weller now can grow food all year round for his people instead of being limited to one crop per year.

Because he could purchase food in nearby Honduras if funds were available, many area residents and civic organizations have donated money.

Vennix reports that over $5,000 has been donated to date and donations still

County to recycle waste issue again

Formation of a countywide solid waste disposal system surfaces again Tuesday as an issue before the Outagamie County Board as supervisors hold their monthly meeting.

It will bring the proposal into its sixth consecutive month of debate, since Allis-Chalmers first offered to sell the city a waste shredding mill as a major element in a countywide system last October.

The specific proposals before the board Tuesday include one to hire engineers to find and plan a landfill site to receive the shredded waste, and a contract outlining county and A-C obligations in the shredder deal itself.

By this time observers have given up trying to predict which way the issue will bounce next. A session of the board's coordinating committee last week rambled over the issue for more than an hour without touching on new ground or resolving basic differences between shredder proponents and the board's "slow-down" minority.

The zoning and economic development committee is directly in charge of arranging for a countywide disposal system. Few board members oppose such a system—at least outwardly—but opponents voice reservations about the pace and direction being taken by the zoning committee.

Other major items on the agenda for the March session, which gets under way at 9:30 a.m. in the board room at the courthouse, include steps toward building a new terminal building at the county airport, a recommendation from the board of social services to upgrade the director's assistant in the job classification schedule, and proposals to sell several parcels of land acquired through tax delinquency.

The board's airport committee has received a scale model and preliminary plans for the terminal structure, and will be seeking the board's authorization to appoint the state secretary of transportation as agent to direct the construction project. The state will provide $35,000 in aid toward the project, carrying an estimated price of $420,000.

A public hearing Wednesday, the day following the board session, will be held by the state Department of Transportation to determine the need for the facility. Most authorities view the hearing as a formality before the aid is granted.

The social services director's assistant is currently classified as a case aide-I in the job charts, at a monthly salary of $432, and the proposed new title is administrative assistant-I, which carries monthly pay of $587.

Weyauwega council hears progress on disposal plant project

WEYAUWEGA — City council members instructed engineer Ray Weber to order fluoride and chlorine feeders for pump house No. 1 and to supervise installation of the equipment.

Engineer Joe Homel reported on the progress of the disposal plant addition, noting some electrical change orders that must be made relating to the standby electrical service equipment. The total cost will be $17,829, of which the city's share is $3,565. Payments by the federal government grant are made as work progresses.

Mrs. Duane Schultz and Frank Zabo, members of the city recreation committee, requested that a water bubbler be installed somewhere in the vicinity of Sumner and Mill streets, near pump house No. 2. They also asked to have the wire fence on the east side of the tennis courts replaced and a nearby tree trimmed. Weber was instructed to check the possibility of having a drinking fountain installed in or near the pump house.

Ron Brasch of New London appeared before the council to discuss building a supermarket in the city, the first step necessary, he said, would be to get the property surveyed, obtain prices on the property, and completed estimates on the parking lot. It was agreed that the council finance committee, Brasch, and Duane Schultz of the Farmers and Merchants Bank would meet to discuss the possibilities of the city financing the purchase and construction of the parking lot.

A letter from the Weyauwega Board of Education, in regard to snow removal, suggested improvements the city could make. The board noted it would cooperate with the city in trying to improve street and sidewalk conditions after any future snowstorm.

The state highway department has given the Farmers and Merchants Bank permission to have a temporary driveway from the new drive-in window to Mill Street.

The Arndt-Bruley American Legion Post was granted a Class "B" retail license to sell fermented malt beverages March 13 and 27 at the legion hall.

Detection program for cervical cancer slated at Wittenberg

WITTENBERG — The Cervical Cancer Detection Program, sponsored by the state Department of Health together with the Shawano County Public Health Service and the American Cancer Society will be held here on March 20. Programs include a 1:30 and a 7:30 p.m. meeting at the Homme Home For The Aging and a 7:30 p.m. meeting at Potch-Chee-Nuck Indian Gift Shop north of Wittenberg.

Films shown will be on the "Importance of Detection," and "The Self-Administration Test." The films will be followed by discussions by Mrs. Bonnie Almazar at Wittenberg, clinic technician; and by Mrs. Mattie Stoehr, at Potch-Chee-Nunk. Mrs. Stoehr is the Shawano County health nurse.

The clinic is open to the public and is free. Each person attending will receive a "Do It Yourself Pap Test Kit," and will be taught how to make the test herself, after which she should mail the test to the State Board of Health at Madison. She will be mailed the results in about three weeks.

Help's on the way

Standing in front of a truckload of supplies ready to begin its trip to Nicaragua are Clarence Weller, the Rev. James Vennix and Mrs. Arnold Weller. The agricultural supplies are en route to Father Andre Weller, a missionary in Nicaragua, who sought help from his native Chilton when his village faced starvation after last December's earthquake. He is Mrs. Weller's son and Clarence's brother. (Connors Photo)

Medicine policy to be discussed

NEW LONDON — Proposed policies for dispensing medication to students will be discussed when the board of education meets Monday.

The proposal, which would regulate giving the medicine to students who are taking it under a doctor's directions, was discussed previously by the board.

Supt. H.J. Ramsdell has contacted other area schools to learn their dispensing policies. Waupaca has no formal policy, he said, and Clintonville and Hortonville require parents to sign a form before the medicines are dispensed.

Appleton doesn't have a formal policy either, he said, but it adheres to suggested procedures outlined by the state Department of Public Instruction.

In other business Monday, the board will discuss a request from the Fox Valley Technical Institute to use the New London school forest as a forestry lab. It also will discuss a request from Ralph Wohlt, a high school instructor, to form an ecology club.

The 1973-74 school calendar will be discussed and the board will let bids for two school buses, one van and one lunch vehicle.

Mrs. Irene Wiederhoft, homemaker, said that dressers or chests of drawers, a dining room table and chairs, living room furniture, beds, rugs, curtains, towels, bed linens, dishes, kettles and silverware are needed.

The department also is asking for a donation of size 16 maternity clothes.

Girl Scouts plan 'Week of Celebration'

CLINTONVILLE — Girl Scout Week starting Sunday is being called a "Week of Celebration" as local scouts are celebrating the 61st anniversary of the Girl Scouts of the United States, according to Mrs. Violet Viitanen, service team chairman.

The week will begin with Girl Scout Sunday, and scouts will attend their church as a group.

On Monday a mother-daughter potluck supper and camp rally will be held at the junior high school starting at 5:30 p.m.

The annual Brownie father-daughter dinner will begin at 5 p.m. March 18 at the high school. Glenn Detrow, junior high principal, will tell about his experiences while living in Africa.

The three Brownie troops are making napkins, place cards, and invitations in preparation for the event. They also are practicing songs they will sing for their fathers.

Another intertroop activity for the Brownies is swimming in the indoor pool at Shawano. They are learning community service by singing for the elderly and making tray favors.

Girls of Troop 258 are thinking about their winter friends as they made suet balls and hung them in trees in their yards for the birds.

Mrs. Robert Danielson of Troop 339 taught her girls how to do creative stitchery for their rooms. Jean Schroepfer, who is a program aide, taught the Brownies of Troop 339 folk dancing.

Scouts of Troop 130 tried their skill at ice skating for one of their outdoor activities.

Junior scouts are busy girls. Mrs. Viitanen reported, giving service, working on badges, camping, training to be good citizens, preparing for Girl Scout Week and the camp rally.

Girls of Troop 127 visited the polls, toured the police station and city hall, and learned how the city government functions. They are busy now decorating blown-out egg shells for Easter decorations for the rest homes and hospital.

For Thinking Day on Feb. 22, Troop 163 had American Field Service student Francis Coulon tell about Scouting in Belgium. The girls have completed the sewing, dancer, and Indian lore badges. Hezel Hill talked to them on Indian lore. In the sewing class, the girls made gifts for their parents.

During February, members of Cadette Troop 133 worked in interest groups, on textile art, interior decorating, and aviation badges. Program consultants were Mrs. Larry Brisco, assisted by Mrs. Linda Reinholz, county home economist, for the textile art; Mrs. Kenneth McLyman, interior decorating, and Bill Brennan, aviation. With Mrs. McLyman, the group visited a Green Bay furniture gallery. Upon completion of the aviation badge, the girls were treated to a flight to Green Bay.

The girls are producing a play to be presented the end of May and they also are making plans to take part in the Council Cadette-O-Ree to be held May 4-6 at Huckleberry Farm near New London.

The Cadette scouts raise flags on holidays in Clintonville at the various business places, and some of the girls have adopted grandparents at the rest homes.

Senior Troop 288 works with the girls in special Troop 303. Karen Dean, a senior scout, will be attending a "Conference in the Arts" sponsored by the Greater Milwaukee Girl Scout Council at Milwaukee on March 16, 17 and 18.

All Clintonville scouts are preparing to take part in the future events of "Keep America Beautiful Day" and the Memorial Day parade.

'Inside Vietnam' story to be told at Marion

MARION — The Rev. R. Dean Hancock, director of Vietnam Christian Service programs from 1967 to 1972, will speak at the First United Methodist Church at 8 p.m. Friday, March 16. The public is invited to hear his story, "Inside Vietnam."

Vietnam Christian Service is a cooperative relief and service program of Lutheran World Relief, the Mennonite Central Committee and Church World Service, which is the relief arm of the National Council of Churches, and its member denominations.

Hancock traveled through South Vietnam supervising the work of 12 local units, while his wife, Margaret, served as a social worker, directing a project to aid abandoned children in Saigon. They previously lived at Elkhorn where Hancock was a United Methodist pastor for 12 years.

Vietnam Christian Service is a cooperative effort springing from a shared concern among the Protestants for the agony and suffering of the Vietnamese people. An important part of the program is carried out in multi-service positions of administration of the projects. The VNCS staff numbers 64 overseas personnel and well over 100 Vietnamese.

As director of programs, Hancock was responsible for all projects carried out by VNCS. This includes 12 units located in the provinces and a variety of programs in the Saigon area, such as five social service centers, scholarships and loans of specialized personnel to Vietnamese institutions and reconstruction projects. Mrs. Hancock's project of aiding abandoned children was in cooperation with the Saigon Maternity Hospital.

Emergency unit goes into service

BY JANETTE KENNEDY
Post-Crescent correspondent

SHIOCTON — The telephone number 986-3321 has become very important in the village and the Town of Bovina, and should be posted next to the phone in the home of every resident with the arrival of the joint community emergency vehicle.

The unit, which was put into service about three weeks ago, was purchased with $11,765 dollars raised through donations, memorials and fund raising projects and a $5,750 federal grant.

The vehicle will primarily service the two communities that made the purchase possible, however, contracts have been sent to neighboring communities offering ambulance service.

The volunteer fire department, which will man the unit, are awaiting ratification of the contracts.

The orange and white vehicle, which has a capacity for four patients, is equipped with a two-way radio making it possible to be in contact with county police and all hospitals.

A partial list of equipment that will be carried in the air conditioned vehicle are oxygen and suction equipment, pulse tachometer, stethoscope for taking blood pressure, first aid dressings, splints, respirator, spine boards, stretchers, blankets and sheets.

The unit will be manned by two qualified attendants and a driver. Fourteen members of the fire department have completed a 30-hour course at the Fox Valley Technical Institute and are preparing to start a 90-hour course. Qualified members are Warren Andrews, Carl Anthony, Eugene Bunnell, Earl Conradt, John Elliott Jr., Alan Hanks, Elmer Johnson, Gerald Kleiner, Thomas Moder, Gene Main, Dale Nichols, Harley Schwandt, Larry Riehl and Tom Johnson.

Men presently taking the first course are Wayne Brugger, Rueben Herminath, Myron Kruzicki, Ervin Moede, Michael Suszko and Victor Voight Jr.

Emergency vehicle

Shiocton Police Chief Eugene Bunnell, left, and Fire Chief Dale Nichols inspect the new Shiocton-Bovina emergency vehicle that was purchased by the two communities for $17,515. The vehicle, which will serve Shiocton and the Town of Bovina, will be under the jurisdiction of the fire department and manned by trained volunteer attendants.

Local churches will observe Key 73 phase, 'Call to Resurrection'

"Calling Our Continent to the Resurrection" is the third phase in a six-phase program of Key 73, which is being observed in a variety of ways by area churches now through Easter.

Key 73 is a unique, simultaneous continent-wide evangelism thrust in which more than 150 denominations, church bodies and para-ecclesiastical groups are participating, each working individually or in cooperation with other groups or congregations at the community level.

The purpose of the yearlong program is to confront the people of this continent with the Gospel by proclamation and demonstration.

The local theme for phase three is "Go and Tell."

Many local congregations have announced special services to coincide with Lenten season.

Almost all of the Lutheran churches involved in Key 73 will emphasize the program in their midweek services. Included in the list of those that have announced this to the Key 73 committee are First English, Gloria Dei (Neenah), Trinity, Good Shepherd and Prince of Peace.

Other churches of various denominations that have announced various special events include Valley Baptist, which has scheduled series of Bible studies throughout the weeks; St. Mary Catholic Church, which will have morning Bible studies during

March and April at 9:30 a.m., and special prayer services each Saturday evening;

St. John United Church of Christ, which will also be engaged in Bible classes in homes of the parishioners;

Emmanuel United Methodist Church, which will have worship services Wednesday evenings, followed by small group discussions;

All Saints' Episcopal, which has many events scheduled from now through Easter, including a quiet day for women, breakfasts, ecumenical service with two bishops participating and informal "house masses."

Zion United Church of Christ, Dale, will have Bible study, adult retreat and a community survey. There will be distribution of the Scripture and Lenten devotional guides which will be made available to those interested.

Whenever special events are announced and open to the public, there will be separate stories in The Post-Crescent.

According to a description by the national committee of Phase 3 of Key 73, Easter is the heart and core of Key 73 and of the entire Christian faith. Without it there would be no reason for witnessing.

To call this continent to the resurrection is, therefore, the foremost thrust of the program.

The evangelistic outreach of the church falls into three phases: Direct, indirect and directed. Direct witness is personal confrontation—a one-to-one situation;

Indirect witness uses other forms of ministry such as teaching and bringing comfort. Directed witnessing is sharing the gospel through a structured program.

It is the last with which the local committee is involved.

Included in the recommendations by the national committee is the distribution of literature, which many of the local churches will be doing; a community survey; study groups to which area people regardless of their affiliation are invited, and discussion groups after certain sermons during Lent.

Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.

2 Paulist fathers to conduct renewal program at St. Bernard

Two Paulist priests from Minneapolis will conduct a two-week spiritual renewal and religious education program beginning Sunday at St. Bernard Catholic Church.

The Rev. Owen Weitzel and the Rev. Bernard Campbell will be in charge.

Weitzel Campbell

The program will include traditional services in the church as well as special one-hour discussion periods after. Emphasis will be placed on home masses and small group discussions throughout the two weeks.

The priests will be available for counseling during their Appleton stay.

Services will be at 7:30 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Other dates and places for masses are currently being organized.

Campbell and Weitzel describe the program, developed since Vatican II, as focusing on current concerns of adult Christians. It is designed to help people understand better what is taking place in the Catholic church.

Weitzel is a native of Chicago, attended St. Joseph College, Rensselaer, Ind., served in the Army in Korea and joined the Paulist Fathers in 1957. He worked in Utah and Canada and for the last two years was associate pastor of the American Catholic Church, Santa Susanna, Rome.

Campbell is a native of Bronx, N.Y., attended Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass., and received his masters degree in theology from St. Paul College, Washington, D.C. He was involved in inner city work and was a chaplain at Columbus State Hospital in Ohio. He was in parish work in Portland, Ore., for two years.

Study says drop in nuns will continue

CHICAGO—The number of women entering religious communities declined steadily from 1965 to 1971, and although their number rose in 1972, the total number of sisters in the U.S. is likely to decline within the next five years.

The prediction, explained in a story in this week's National Catholic Reporter, is made in a new report on entrances and departures from religious communities, in which 60 per cent of the nation's 455 communities took part.

Members of the participating communities constitute 71 per cent of the nation's sisters.

Among the survey's findings are:

—Of the total number of departing sisters, 34 per cent died. The other 66 per cent departed by means of dispensation from perpetual vows or termination of temporary vows.

—Of the total number of women entering the participating religious communities between 1965 and 1971 (13,476), 44 per cent stayed (5,907).

—Between that same time period, the number of women entering the communities represented in the study fell from a post-Vatican II high of 4,110 in 1965 to a low of 306 in 1971.

The first change of trend occurred in 1972 when the communities collectively experienced an increase of 47 entrances.

The report on departures did not deal with why the sisters left.

Ventriloquist sets show for children at United Pentecostal

Ventriloquist Judy Wasmundt and her puppet "Dandy Randy" will perform for the children of Fox Cities United Pentecostal Church on Sunday.

Judy is the daughter of the Rev. Louis Wasmundt of the Sheboygan United Pentecostal Church. She has performed for schools, civic organizations and churches for the last three years. She is a graduate of the Apostolic Bible Institute, St. Paul, and is active in youth work.

Wasmundt will speak at the morning service after the puppet show. The church is at 1713 S. Oneida St.

Monte Alverno sets Scripture program for retired people

The second session in an ecumenical Scripture program for retired people will be from 9 to 11 a.m. Monday at the Monte Alverno Retreat Center.

The program will deal with such topics as loneliness, wisdom, aging and mission and prayer, as treated in the Scriptures.

The Rev. Robert Lexa will be the leader.

The Rev. Kurt Geasner, retreat center director, explained, "with the many other programs available to meet the recreational needs of senior citizens, there should be at least one program to meet their spiritual needs."

Bible printing firm official to speak at Alliance

The Rev. Perry A. Temple, executive secretary of Bible Literature International, will speak at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Appleton Alliance Church.

Temple has visited 29 nations in behalf of the literature ministry during his 22 years with the organization.

Bible Literature International was founded in 1923 when a Christian businessman inaugurated the distribution of the Bible in jails, schools and factories. Today, on its 50th anniversary, BLI is distributing many tons of free literature each year to missionaries serving with 225 mission boards in 151 countries.

Temple recently returned from a survey of several key nations in Africa, for which BLI prints several million pieces each year.

Mission official to speak Sunday

Dr. Charles A. Puls, executive secretary of the Lutheran Orient Mission, will speak at the 7:30, 8:45 and 10:30 a.m. services Sunday at Zion Lutheran Church.

He will discuss work carried on among the Kurds in Old Persia, including an evangelistic church in Arbil, Iraq, which has a full-time native evangelist, and a Christian Hospital in another part of the country.

It is served by three doctors, four nurses and 13 Persian nurses' aides. Records show admissions number more than 39,000 since the hospital opened in April, 1965.

Puls visited the hospital in September and will discuss medical mission work among the Moslems Sunday.

First United to have all-church evening, development seminar

SAN ANTONIO — A scholarly assessment of "Peter in the New Testament" will be issued next fall as background for ecumenical discussions of the role of the papacy in the universal church.

Plans for publication of the 200-page volume — authored by 11 biblical experts of the Lutheran, Catholic, Episcopal and Reformed traditions — were disclosed here in late February.

"At no period since the Reformation," it was reported, "has such a joint effort on a divisive topic been possible." The announcement was made as Lutheran and Catholic theologians began their ninth year of doctrinal discussions — their 16th meeting since the talks were initiated in 1965 and the fifth dealing with the issue of papal primacy in relation to "Ministry and the Universal Church."

The study on Peter will be published as a companion volume to the conclusions reached by the theologians after two years of deliberation on the controversial subject. Their formal findings will include a common statement on papal primacy, interpretative statements by each group and other pertinent papers.

A preface prepared for the volume on "Peter in the New Testament" expresses the hope that it will become the subject of study in ecumenical discussion groups and the text for adult education classes, as well as a resource in college classes and in seminars in theological schools.

The preface is signed by the co-chairman of the Lutheran-Catholic dialogue — Dr. Paul C. Empe, former general secretary of the LWF's U.S.A. national committee, and the Most Rev. T. Austin Murphy, auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore.

"As we approached the subject of the papacy in the context of the ministry that should be exercised toward the church as a whole," the preface will say, "we saw quickly that it would be essential for our task to have a thorough reassessment of the role of Peter in the New Testament according to modern critical scholarship."

"We were aware that some in Christendom question both the propriety and the reliability of this critical approach to biblical research, and we ourselves recognize its limitations in reaching final theological conclusions."

"Nevertheless, we believed that responsible inquiry into original source materials was a necessary task and would greatly further mutual understanding of a central issue that has vexed Christian relationships over many centuries."

Gun sales declining

Every time a prominent person in the country is shot, there is an outcry for tighter gun controls. When Senator Stennis was recently shot by a robber with a stolen handgun, even President Nixon, who has rather avoided the controversy, joined in.

There is usually a countercry from organizations like the National Rifle Association and more wild-eyed groups who fear that any type of gun registration or more restriction is a step on the way to confiscation in a Fascist or Communist plot.

But whatever the point of view, the gun business is still making a healthy profit although there are indications that the future will show some decreases.

In 1972 Americans spent $581.6 million on firearms and supplies. Of all sporting goods, firearms ranked third, behind photographic equipment and pleasure boats. But firearms are also third among the five slowest growing categories, such as archery equipment and bowling balls. And in the decade between 1960 and 1970, the increase in firearm sales was only 8.1 per cent in comparison to 71.4 per cent for snowmobiles. Obviously the latter had a boom because they were relatively new. But winter sports equipment in general rose 19.2 per cent. Last year the increase for firearms was 5 per cent.

There has been some increase in negative feelings about guns. At least one manufacturer of guns recognizes this by not using the company name associated with firearms on the skis it manufactures in a diversification effort. But there has been an increase in the purchase of hand guns in particular due to violence and consequent fears in the cities. The Gun Control Act of 1968 requires guns to be purchased in the same state the buyer lives and effectively bans mail order sales of hand guns. But the states or communities determine the local restrictions. They may be severe as in New York City which requires fingerprinting, two character witnesses, photographs and a waiting period before a permit is granted. Most areas only ask identification, no more stringent than youth J.D. cards.

But according to some observers, the interest in hunting — the only valid reason for most gun owners to have one — is on the way out. Surveys indicate that the college educated are less interested. Manufacturers of firearms recently had a ballot on the matter and almost 70 per cent said they thought hunting would become less important in the next five years. Such well known hunters as Mel Ellis, author and columnist, have expressed changing attitudes. While camping, skiing, including cross-country, and boating along with competitive sports like golf and tennis, continue to show appeal, even the apparent growth in trap and skeet shooting and target contests may not succeed in bolstering the gun business.

It's impossible to determine whether attitudes developed during the Vietnam war and the assassinations of prominent Americans have meant an antipathy for guns. There has been considerable emphasis upon the needs of environmental protection, and endangered species that may have affected opinions. Even the insistence by some organizations that promote hunting and shooting that conservation is the major aim may not counter backlash. Nor have charges that the gun is just an extension of an insecure man's maleness helped.

But it doesn't appear that mere gun legislation has done much so far to curb the sale of guns.

Ban on imported cat skins

The United States agricultural attache in Caracas suspected a hoax. So he checked with Venezuelan ministry of agriculture officials about a newspaper report of a combined cat and mouse ranch operation to be set up in the remote northwest.

"We were told that not only is it a legitimate enterprise, but the director of livestock programs was starting an operation to raise burros for their skins." So the U.S. Department of Agriculture joined those protesting any importation of cat skins into the United States for the lucrative fur coat trade.

Of course it was a hoax, part of the Venezuelan version of April Fool's Day which falls on December 28. But Representative Glenn Anderson of California introduced a bill into Congress to ban the importation of cat hides. Rumors that the mice being raised to feed the cats might also contribute their heads for tie clips or paws for good luck charms raised more fury among animal lovers.

The episode brings up the question of why Americans become upset about the idea of slaughtering cats for their skins but shed no tears for mink or foxes. There is an outcry about the killing of wild animals, especially endangered species, for their fur, but there have been no demonstrations about the currently popular sheepskin linings to jackets or the use of pigskin wallets. Little lambs are pretty cute and some people say piglets make fine housepets. And what about those ducklings, or beef steaks and cute little cornish game hens served up on hot platters?

Outcries against the killing of other creatures depends pretty much upon the way we've been conditioned. Which brings to mind, now that neither side in Northern Ireland accepts reasonable solutions, Jonathan Swift's modest proposal to solve the Nineteenth Century Irish problem.

The puddle season

This is the season poet e.e. cummings called "puddle-wonderful."

Mothers may not agree with the poet about the wonderful part. But their children do and that is the trouble.

Puddles are to walk through, not around. Thin ice is for stomping. Mud is for squishing — through toes when the weather is warm but with whatever is on one's feet otherwise. Water is for splashing and it doesn't really matter what gets in the way. In fact a child who arrives home all dry and unspattered these days must be sick.

Mothers may bemoan the laundry load, the mud tracked in, the boots that don't dry overnight, the threat of chills and fever. But the puddles of spring are a sign of the end of winter, the burgeoning of new life, of freedom from ice shackles, of everything that is young and fresh, aimless and growing.

Why shouldn't children have a special affinity for puddles?

Expansion of cabinet has drawbacks

MADISON — The Democratic state administration has thus far dominated the discussion about its far-reaching proposal to install what it chooses to describe as the "cabinet" system of state administration. If enacted, it would put into the hands of future governors more power than any of their predecessors ever had without regard to the growth of governmental services in recent times.

Gov. Patrick Lucey has repeatedly shown his reservations, and some resentment, about government by "bureaucracy" as he calls it. He argues that the major services ought to be directly accountable to the elected executive who in turn is supposed to be responsible to the voters who entrusted him with authority.

He has some advantage of precedent to the extent that the so-called Kellett reorganization act five years ago tentatively introduced the principle that major departments should be run by men of the governor's choice who would be expected to be replaced when the governor retires or is defeated. There is presumably some advantage also in the fact that those "secretariats" thus far created have been functioning satisfactorily, or at the least, without overt public criticism.

Not policy-makers

But it is important to remember that the "cabinet secretaries" now running agencies as the direct representatives of the governor and holding office at his "pleasure," as the low euphemistically puts it, are basically ministerial officers. They are not policy-makers in the usual sense. They are administrative housekeepers, for the most part, which is why they were chosen for the Kellett experiment and why there was no special complaint about putting them under indefinite tenure when the Kellett act was passed.

The requested expansion of the "cabinet" idea embraces agencies with far more independent powers, involving an infinitely broader variety of interests and constituencies, and containing, perhaps, more reason for observant citizens to wonder if it is altogether prudent to put them under the immediate control of the governor.

On such questions, the thoughtful citizen tries to remember that the governorship is a temporary office. Its occupants are highly transient. What may be acceptable today under Mr. Lucey, may be quite unacceptable at another time. What is acceptable to the Democrats may not be desirable to Republicans, and vice versa.

The major agencies that Lucey would now put directly under the thumb of the executive office are Natural Resources, Industry, Labor and Human Relations, and Health and Public Services. There won't be much quarrel with the idea that the governor's man could run a park system, or an employment service, or even a hospital. But there are also broad, various and vital quasi-legislative powers involved, as in pollution ordinances (not to mention the violate questors of fish and game) public health, the relations of employer and employes, as examples.

Continuity has value

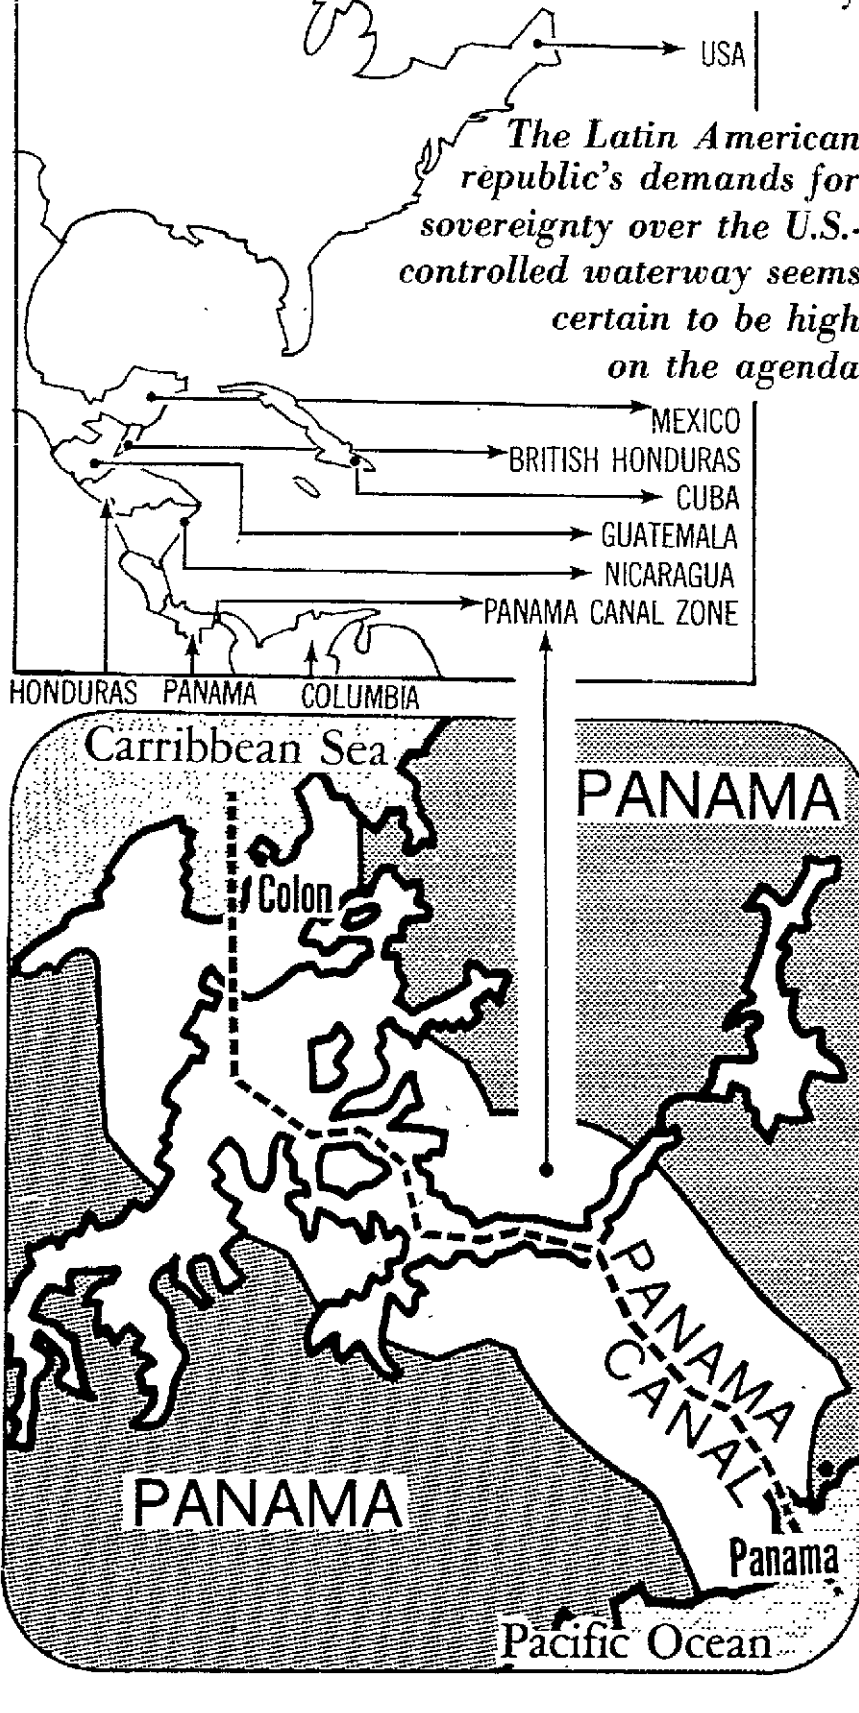

For many decades the state has upheld the idea that continuity of policy and purpose has a value, and that the role of these powerful departments should not be changed, or their purposes flutter, with each shift of the political winds. Each of them has broad authority vested by acts of legislatures which felt they were unable to handle such complexities through statute law.

Insufficiently acknowledged, moreover, in the opinion of those who view the Lucey plan with reservations, is that the role of the governor has substantially grown with the four-year term. In most cases the governor can take over voting control of such boards and commissions during his first term, if he desires.

Indeed, Mr. Lucey has already named men to the Board of Natural Resources, as a convenient example, who have not yet shown on the record that they differ significantly in purpose or action from seatmates who were chosen by Warren Knowles a few years earlier.

Is Nixon out to censor news?

Mr. Fred Friendly, Professor of Journalism, Consultant to the Ford Foundation, and the originator of a TV documentary, has delivered a most provocative speech, in which he says it flatly and simply that the Nixon Administration is out to censor the news, that it has discovered a way of doing this, that its instrument is Dr. Clay Whitehead, the head of the White House telecommunications office, and that most broadcasters are poltroons. A few observations:

1. It has been the rule ever since the Federal Communications Act was passed that owners of radio licenses need to reapply for said licenses every three years. In the application for renewal it is the practice of a broadcaster to go on quite incontinently about the virtues of said broadcaster, to describe the great benefits that inure to the community as the result of his administration of the facility, and so on.

Entire industry upset

Now up until quite recently, the renewal of a radio and television license was pretty routine. But the spirit of consumerism swept the country in the late sixties, and it happened that sitting on the Federal Communications Commission was Mr. Nicholas Johnson, an amiable Nader-type who has trouble sleeping at night for fear that somebody, somewhere, is making money. As a result, one or two spectacular challenges were made, and the entire industry looked up from its boilerplate exercises in narcissism and began to worry. Senator Pastore of Rhode Island took an interest in the matter and proposed a law that nobody should be permitted to apply for another man's license until that license had been removed from him for delinquency. I found this proposal sound law and sound psychology. It is not appropriate to stress one's advantages as a husband over against the incumbent until after the divorce. But Senator Pastore was beaten by a lobby of consumerists who, having seen Paree, were intoxicated at the prospect of engaging the attention of the FCC and applying for choice licenses in New York, Boston, Los Angeles or wherever by the simple expedient of describing how much more greatly the new owners would serve the community than the old.

2. Along comes Mr. Whitehead. He clearly announces himself as a representative of Richard Milhous Nixon, protesting against the uniform bias of radio and television news. And he suggests a deal. If the radio and television stations will themselves agitate for better balanced news analysis from the networks, then the administration will support a law that stretches the three-year renewal period to five years.

Now Mr. Friendly and a great many others are quite incensed by this maneuver. It is their position that the White House is in fact saying to the individual station owner: look, the news you are getting out of New York and Washington from Cronkite, Seavareid, Brinkley, et al. is slanted (Whitehead's term was "ideological plugola"). Now under the Fairness Doctrine, it is your responsibility to see that there is substantial expression of opposing views. If you fail to exercise pressure on New York and Washington, we will not guarantee that your station licenses will be renewed.

And of course if the threat is that plain spoken, then Mr. Friendly is right, the networks would perish from this earth. At least that part of the network news that is not devoted to golf matches or coronations.

3. What I wonder, however, is why Mr. Friendly and his associates have concentrated their ire on Whitehead. They quite rightly warn that if any broadcaster goes to embarrassing lengths to endear himself with the Nixon Administration, he is going to be an especially conspicuous target for a post-Nixon Administration, and all that will result from the mess is a thorough politicalization of the news — that or an avoidance of it so meticulous as in effect to destroy broadcast journalism.

But surely Mr. Friendly has failed to single out the truly solid institutional solution — which is to let out the licenses permanently. It is their periodic exposure to the travails of renewal that is the club, available to the politicians, through which to express their displeasure. Professor Milton Friedman gave the recommendation years ago: let the current owners amortize their stations, then let the frequencies be sold at public auction — permanently. And, a most important concomitant — let no one stand in the way of the development of cable television, or pay TV. That way Eric Sevareid could be as biased as he likes, and it is nobody's business but his, his employer's and the people who tune him on — or off.

Looking back

Gas works discussed at Appleton

100 YEARS AGO

Appleton Crescent, March 15, 1873
Mr. H. D. Bannister, of Green Bay, has been in town canvassing among our citizens and discussing the question of supplying our City with Gas at an early day.

He met with a good deal of success, and feels sufficiently encouraged already with his intercourse with our citizens to bring the matter into focus—upwards of 100 business-men and private citizens subscribing to receive gas in their buildings.

From the present aspects of the case, we think it more than likely that positive arrangements will be made, assuring the establishment of a gas here some time during the coming summer.

The works will involve an outlay of some $10,000 or more. The price of the gas is to be $4 a thousand, the same as at Oshkosh and other places in the state outside of Milwaukee.

Board members of Chaminade Chorus were planning the women's annual spring concert under the direction of Director A. A. Glockzin and Assistant Director Edwin Zordel. They were Miss Helen Twiton, president; Miss Buda May, vice president; Miss Jane Holmes, secretary; Miss Dorothy Rietz, treasurer; Miss Beth Aalbers, and Miss Genevieve Diederich.

BY CHARLES GREEN
PANAMA CITY (AP) — When the U.N. Security Council convenes here March 15 for its first meeting in Latin America, one of the surest topics of discussion will be the U.S. presence in the Panama Canal Zone.

Rules of the United Nations prohibit formal security council debate on purely bilateral matters, unless world peace is threatened. But Panama's negotiations with the United States on a new canal treaty will certainly be one of the unofficial topics during the week-long session.

Since 1903, the United States has had control over the canal, a strip 10 miles wide and 50 miles long. The pact said that the United States would have control and jurisdiction over the zone forever.

The treaty, signed when the Republic of Panama was only two weeks old, has been a source of friction between Panama and the United States for more than half a century.

Negotiations are underway for a new pact which Panama hopes will give it sovereignty and jurisdictional control over the zone. Panama also hopes to eliminate the U.S. military presence in the zone. About 40,000 members of the U.S. armed forces are stationed in the zone which also serves as military headquarters for all U.S. operations in Latin America.

Anti-American riots erupted in Panama in 1956 and 1964. The 1964 outbreak resulted in the death of 22 Panamanians and four Americans. As a result, Panama severed diplomatic relations with Washington.

Later the two governments negotiated new draft treaties covering the canal itself, but neither government ever ratified the drafts and Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos rejected them after taking power in a military coup on Oct. 11, 1968.

Since taking over, Torrijos has been hammering at the United States, telling his countrymen that Panama will settle for nothing less than complete jurisdiction and sovereignty over the zone.

The United States now pays Panama $1.9 million a year toward operation of the canal.

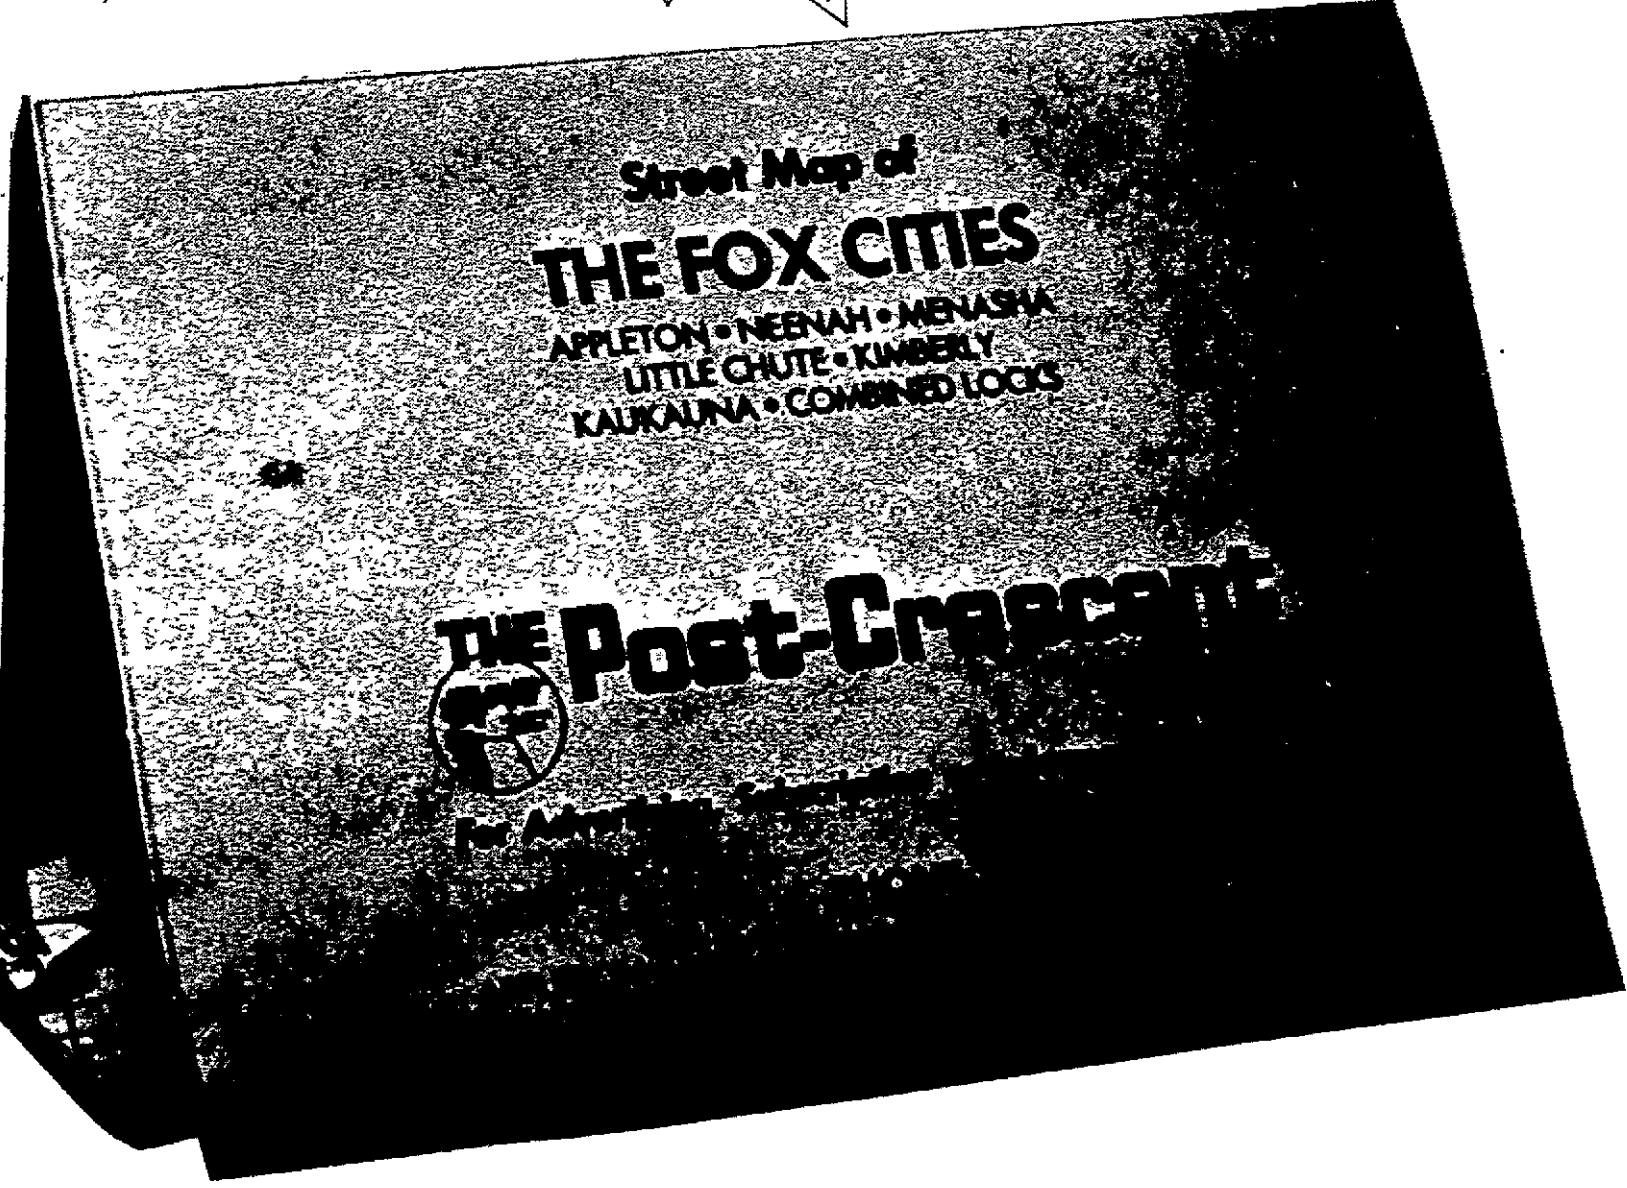

Panama has sought support from the nonaligned nations of the "Third World" in an attempt to win sovereignty over the zone. Many observers regard Panama's invitation too for the security council to meet here as an attempt to embarrass the United States.

Secret papers useless to enemy, Bundy says

LOS ANGELES (AP) — McGeorge Bundy, who helped shape U.S. policies in Vietnam, says the North Vietnamese had secrets "coming out of their ears" by the time Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo copied the Pentagon papers.

He said the enemy would have realized that the papers told useless secrets of the Johnson administration, which no longer was running the war in 1969, the year Richard Nixon took office and Ellsberg and Russo copied the top secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war.

"There is no way of predicting the behavior of President Nixon from a close study of President Johnson," Bundy testified Friday before the jury hearing government charges of espionage, conspiracy and theft against Ellsberg and Russo.

The bespectacled defense witness, who served as an adviser to both Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, said release of three volumes of the study could not have harmed the United States in 1969 nor given an advantage to an enemy.

"It was because they had a very extensive intelligence operation going on that this material would be of marginal interests. My opinion is that they had this kind of information coming out of their ears," Bundy testified during cross-examination.

Armstrong defense fund established

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A group called the Karl Armstrong Defense Committee said Friday it has launched a drive to raise between $30,000 and $40,000 to pay for the University of Wisconsin bombing suspect's legal fees.

Spokesman David Newman told newsmen the group will support Armstrong, 27, throughout his trial with "demonstrations when necessary," including one scheduled Monday at the school.

Armstrong was extradited from Canada to Madison Thursday on an order charging him with murder and arson in connection with the 1970 bombing of the UW Army Math Research Center in which a researcher was killed.

Armstrong, being held in Dane County Jail under $450,000 bail, is also charged with three other counts of arson in connection with firebombings at separate campus buildings.

Newman said Milwaukee attorney William Coffey is expected to join Madison lawyer Melvin Greenberg in defending Armstrong. He said there had been no word from Chicago Seven defense attorney William Kunstler of New York, who had indicated after Armstrong's arrest that he would help in the case.

Botulism found in mushrooms

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Food and Drug Administration Friday said it had found botulinum spores in one code of mushrooms produced by Fred Mushrooms Products Co., South Lebanon, Ohio.

The FDA said the company was recalling many of its products.

The FDA said Thursday it had found swollen cans of the firm's products on retail shelves, but also that there was no evidence of botulism.

The FDA said Friday, however, that tests showed the presence of botulinum toxin in a sample of four-ounce cans of Fred's Fresh Grown pieces and stems mushrooms with the code number SW364.

Distribution of the firm's products, the FDA said, is essentially nationwide. It said the firm's records indicate that mushrooms also were packed under at least three private labels, many of which are being recalled. They are Deerwood, packed for U.B.C., Inc., of Chicago; Fame, packed for Super Foods Services, Bellefontaine, Ohio, and Vassar, Mich., and packed for Fame Market Corp., Sayton, Ohio; and Sentry products, packed for Sentry Foods, Waukesha, Wis.

It also said that cans of Fred's steak sauce and mushrooms in brown gravy also were being recalled.

But it said some products of the firm were packed at a different plant and were not involved in the recall. These, the FDA said, include Fred's Button mushrooms, which also come under Fame and Deerwood labels; Fred's whole mushrooms and Fred's whole slices in glass containers.

Twisters

Law enforcement officials in the San Angelo area said the tornado demolished four house trailers and caused damage to about a dozen other houses. They said damage spread over a wide area with undamaged regions between, leading them to believe the twister touched down more than once.

About an hour later at 2:30 a.m., another tornado was sighted by a DPS unit near Blackwell, also in West Texas.

Other tornadoes were sighted around Waco with some damage not immediately assessed.

The Weather Service office in Abilene reported winds gusting to 74 miles per hour, while at Ballinger in Runnels County winds blew down a grain elevator on the city's outskirts.

Elsewhere in Texas, tornado watches were issued by the Weather Service for almost 100 of the state's 254 counties during the night.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a young woman who wanted to know if she should marry a wonderful man who "wasn't very communicative." She said she was starved for conversation, that sometimes an hour would pass and he would answer questions with a "yes" or a "no" and not say another word. She described him as "not very outgoing" and said, "I'm sure he's shy and after we are married he'll be more confident."

May I say a word to that young girl, Ann?

Dear Young Lady: If you marry that quiet fellow you'll regret it. I know because I married one just like him. During our courtship he was pensive and quiet. I thought he was just introverted and I would bring him out of it. What a mistake that was!

After marriage he clammed up for days and I never heard his voice. He'd move his head up and down for "yes" and from side to side for "no."

For five years I put up with silence and finally I became so nervous and frustrated I went to see a doctor. He told me, "The man is sick and he is making you sick, too. Get him to a psychiatrist or get a divorce."

My husband refused to go to a psychiatrist, so I divorced him.

That was 12 years ago and I thank my lucky stars I had the courage to take the doctor's advice. Ann Landers has often said, "Don't marry a man thinking that you will improve him. Chances are he'll get worse." Please take Ann's word for it. She's right.—Old Vet

Dear Vet: I hope you get through to the girl and to others who are in that same leaky canoe.

Dear Ann Landers: For years I've joked with my family about feeling left out because in all my life no one has ever asked me to be a flower girl at a wedding. I now have two grown sons, so you know I'm not a kid. But I'm young at heart and still harbor this secret desire. A darling niece who is being married in August has asked me if I'd like to be her "senior flower girl." I would walk down the aisle holding the hands of the two junior flower girls, ages four and five. The bride-to-be says I'm her favorite relative and she wants me in the wedding party.

Is this as stupid as it sounds?—Young At Heart

Dearheart: Accept the compliment and say yes. These days when barefoot couples are being married in meadows, on hilltops and under water, I see nothing far out in having a senior flower girl. I trust you will not strew flowers in the path of the bride or hold her wedding train. You said you'd just

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Neck arthritis could cause numb hands

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have frequent numbness in my hands, sometimes greater in one but not necessarily in the same hand each time.

It also seems more pronounced in my thumb and first two fingers. Sometimes there is a dull ache near the elbow, other times near the wrist.

The numbness increases when I raise my hands or hold any vibrating item—lawn mower, steering wheel, etc. Many times I have to find a precise location for my arms in order to sleep without the numbness or aching.

I am in my middle 50s, active and otherwise in good health. Can this problem be lessened by exercise, diet or other means?—A.K.

Numbness of the type you describe (which is rather common at your age) could originate in the neck, and it often does.

The explanation: Nerves leading down the arms to hands and fingers originate in the neck, where the nerve fibers emerge from the spine.

If pressure is exerted on these nerves in the neck it can distort the reaction of the nerves anywhere along the way—numbness in hands and fingers, sometimes pain or tingling in other areas between. In your case, elbows and wrists.

Arthritis in the neck is a possible cause—there has been some change in the size and shape of the bones in the neck. Or sheer poor posture can be involved. Do you slouch and "lead with your chin?" It is possible, of course, for pressure on the nerve to be elsewhere, perhaps in the shoulder, but the neck is the first place to look, so X rays are in order.

Since the numbness stops if you find the right way to place your arms when you sleep, that would indicate that there is enough room for the nerve fibers when you are in the right position.

After X-rays, your doctor can suggest the proper course. Maybe improving posture will be sufficient. Perhaps you'll need something more. In many cases, periodic neck traction (which your doctor can show you how to do at home) keeps the neck bones separated enough so the nerve isn't put under pressure.

But diet and exercise won't help.

A very similar problem of numbness, but in the hands, can be what is known as the carpal tunnel syndrome. In that case, the nerves are under pressure in the "tunnel" in which they pass through the wrist. If so, just flexing your wrist for a minute or two will bring on the discomfort. Position of the arms is not the significant factor there. That trouble can be relieved by surgery, occasionally by other means.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am past 60 and under my tongue the connecting tissue or "cord" which holds the tongue down has become as thin as a fine thread. Is there danger of it giving way or "wearing out?"—Mrs. M.

The tissue may appear unduly thin to you, but it will neither give way nor "wear out."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 35, a woman who has been knock-kneed all my life. In recent years I have gained considerable weight and a good deal of it is concentrated in the knee area which makes me appear even more knock-kneed. Is there any type of surgery or treatment that can correct this?—P.J.R.

Fat pads do form around the knees of some people. Surgery is not the answer. At your age you cannot change the bone contour. But weight reduction will help.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis," write to him in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed (use ZIP code), stamped envelope.

Discussion re-opens on car dealers code

MADISON, (AP) — Consumer spokesmen vowed Friday to make a legislative hearing on the Division of Motor Vehicles' auto dealers code rougher the second time around.

Spokesmen for the state Justice Department, the lieutenant governor's Council on Consumer Affairs and the Concerned Consumer League of Milwaukee said they intend to send witnesses to a new legislative hearing on the code, which was amended at an earlier meeting which they did not attend.

The chairman of the Committee for the Review of Administrative Rules, Sen. Wayne Whitton, D-Milwaukee, said the airing would be held March 19 at 10 a.m. in the state Capitol because of confusion which developed over the unanimous Feb. 22 action.

The committee struck down two parts of the dealers code, a tough set of rules which took effect last year to protect consumers from fraud in auto sales and rapid transactions.

The first hearing notice called the code "MVD 23," instead of its proper name, "MVD 24," apparently casting doubt on the legal validity of the airing.

Committee members also were reported to have been unsure whether they took action on the original code or an amended version recently approved by the division.

No consumer groups, and no one from the Justice Department, showed up for the Feb. 22 hearing, although both had been prime movers behind the code's enactment. Whitton said he had been told the groups failed to show because they thought another code was being discussed.

Asked if his group intended to oppose the suspension of the two portions of the code, a Consumer League spokesman said "we'll not only oppose it, but try to put more teeth in the code if we can."

Suspended by the committee were rules requiring auto dealers to inform customers of defects in used cars, and to furnish customers with written estimates for repair work costing more than $25.

If the committee decides again to suspend the sections, it must have the action upheld by passage of a bill in the legislature.

Study backs consistency of penalties

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A reclassification of criminal penalties aimed at providing some consistency to those for similar crimes was suggested by a study committee Friday, but abortion was not included.

Five classes of felonies would be established under the bill. The top class, for example, would consist of first degree murder, kidnaping for profit and treason and would carry a life sentence. The second class would consist of such crimes as second degree murder, kidnaping, arson, armed robbery and rape and carry a maximum prison term of 20 years. There would also be three classes of misdemeanors.

Orlan Prestegard, staff attorney for the Legislative Council's Committee on Criminal Penalties, said the abortion issue was skirted because of recent court decisions.

"The committee felt they might completely endanger the draft (of the bill) if they tried to deal with the abortion question," he said.

The committee's recommendation to the full Legislative Council covers the penalties in the state criminal code, which comprises about 25 per cent of all criminal penalties in the statutes.

The panel, headed by state Sen. Fred Risser, D-Madison, plans to seek more time from the council for its study so it can undertake reclassification of crimes and penalties outside the code.

Food stamps explored

BY PETER BACH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — Tying with the idea of replacing the surplus commodities program with food stamps, the Winnebago County Board of Social Services Thursday authorized welfare director Norman Whitford to gather comparative information from other counties for presentation at a joint meeting next month.

The board called for the study after Whitford said a group of elderly welfare recipients had asked to meet with the board to discuss the merits of food stamps.

The prospect met with an favorable response from Supv. Robert Putzer, Oshkosh, board chairman, who said his enthusiasm for the food stamp program had remained high for years but that former social services boards had always succeeded in quelling it.

Whitford noted recently that the amount of food distributed had taken a sharp dip because clients were taking less. He speculated that the reason for the drop off was that the desirable foods such as meats and cheese were no longer available.

Instead of canned pork, which was once commonplace, recipients find now they have only chicken and a product similar to Spam to choose from, he said. The fruits and vegetables selections have also worsened, he said.

Whitford suggested that the lack of meat commodities was directly related to skyrocketing meat prices nationwide. The federal government won't supply meats under the surplus food program because they buy in such large quantities that this would tend to force meat prices still higher for the general public, Whitford said.

Complicating the plight of some senior welfare recipients, Whitford said, is a bill pending before Congress that would make Old Age Assistance recipients ineligible for either food stamps or surplus commodities.

Financially, Whitford said, the county would do well to consider the food stamp program, since it is reimbursed better than surplus commodities. The cost to the county is less, he said, and the same amount budgeted for commodities could adequately handle the food stamp program.

But he was quick to add that any additional personnel who might be needed to administer the food stamp program could cause a financial pinch. Whitford cited the uproar experienced in Outagamie County when it switched to food stamps.

Currently, a case aid is responsible for the surplus commodities program in the county and the work involved only consumes part of her time, Whitford said.

In unrelated business Thursday, the board was advised that about one-half of the 80-member social services staff were opposed to the continuation of a program by which one staff member per week voluntarily makes himself available to be on call 24 hours per day to take emergency telephone calls from recipients.

The service, which was initiated two years ago through Tel-Sec Inc., has cost the county $36 per month, and that price was raised recently, Whitford said.

Social workers object because "90 per cent or better of the calls" are not true emergencies, Asst. Director Ronald Reetz said. He said that a high percentage of the calls deal with topics which in the minds of staff members could wait until after the weekend.

Clients with problems are encouraged to call their own social workers, Whitford said, adding that the Tel-Sec program was strictly a voluntary one and carried out on an rotating duty basis. One staff member might be expected to be on 24-hour call for one week, just two weeks out of the year, he said.

Reetz, who said the subject was the topic of a recent staff meeting, said a study showed that in one recent five week period, 60 telephone calls were received by staff members on call.

In other action, the board was told that the teletype hookup became operable Wednesday. The system eliminates the need for many long distance telephone calls by hooking up individual social services departments in the state with one another and the headquarters in Madison.

Officials will avoid future 'morgue fees'

OSHKOSH — A Winnebago County committee Thursday reluctantly agreed to pay a $40 "morgue fee" to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Appleton, but concluded informally afterwards that where a choice exists, dealings with hospitals charging such fees should be avoided.

County Corner Duane Moore said in a Feb. 16 letter to the Judiciary and Public Safety committee that he believed the bill to be improper since two other area hospitals with which he deals, Theda Clark and Mercy Medical Center, do not charge "for usage of their hospital morgue for purposes of autopsies or other diagnostic procedures."

Said Moore, "I personally feel that the $40 fee assessed by St. Elizabeth Hospital is nothing more than a way of milking a municipality for a little extra piece of change."

The bill, dated Jan. 31, was issued to the Winnebago County Courthouse as a result of morgue services provided by St. Elizabeth following the unexpected death of a 34-year-old Appleton man Jan. 24.

The man, Moore's records show, had complained of feeling ill on Jan. 23 and died the next day, shortly after being admitted to the hospital. An autopsy, which Moore ordered, determined that the cause of death was a heart attack. The body was held at the hospital.

Moore said he became involved in the case because his office was called. He added that the victim had been a resident of the Town of Menasha, which is in Winnebago County. The hospital is in Outagamie County.

Moore said he ordered the autopsy because of the man's youth and because of the sudden nature of the death. He suspected a dangerous contagious disease might be involved.

Bus route changes to be discussed with town officials

NEENAH — School board president Neal Perry has called a 5 p.m. Monday meeting with the chairmen of the Towns of Menasha, Neenah, Vinland and Clayton to discuss the controversial new school busing schedule.

Town chairmen have been critical of the system since it got underway two weeks ago. They are concerned over students having to walk along country roads in order to catch school buses.

Gatherings of as many as 40 students on a rural corner bus stop constitutes a hazard, they say. They have pushed for school board action to alter bus routes, but the school board so far has stood firm on their policy.

Perry said Friday, however, that the meeting with the town chairmen will be held to present and discuss adjustments in the busing system. Alterations will be worked out this weekend, he said, and be ready for presentation on Monday.

26 students named to Honor Society

MENASHA — Faculty members at St. Mary Central High School have selected 26 students to be inducted into the National Honor Society. Some 22 seniors were selected as permanent members of the society, and six juniors have been elected by the faculty as probationary members.

No more than 15 per cent of the senior class and five per cent of the junior class can be selected. Students are chosen on the basis of scholarship, service and character and leadership qualities.

Seniors to be inducted into the society are Dave Asmuth, Joey Beth Bauer, Louise Bierling, Julie Demerath, Marianne Friedrichs, Betsy Geiger, Barb Gilligan, Bonnie Grall, Mary Haldeman, Greg Koszalinski, Billie Marquardt.

Mary Martin, Greg Recker, Mary Rippl, Christine Rohe, Tom Skalmoski, Laura Sturgis, Bill Swichtenberg, Dave Voss, Polly Wagner, Mike Waincott and Al Zagzebski.

Senior wins award

MENASHA — Chris Roemer, a senior at Menasha High School, was the local winner in the Mathematics Association of America contest held recently at Menasha High. Roemer also won the award last year.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Roemer, 232 Kaukauna St., Menasha.

Roemer, along with other high ranking contestants, will participate in the final contest held this month.

Officials hope for no more white stuff

NEENAH — Hoping that the problem won't rear its head again until late fall, the health and social services committee decided to give itself a month to figure out what to do about the new snow shoveling prices.

Residents have been angry since the city started to charge a flat $5 fee plus $13 an hour to clear sidewalks which remained unshoveled for 24 hours after snow stopped falling.

Ald. Erich Hintz, Fourth Ward, raised the strongest protest against the $5 flat fee. "In my ward alone there were 60 walks shoveled — that's $300. How can the administrative costs be that high," he argued.

The finance committee suggested a week ago that the health and social services committee take a look at the present ordinance and perhaps draft a new one which would put the enforcement into the hands of the police department and provide for a $59 fine for failure to comply.

Police Chief Lawrence Malouf, however, didn't think much of his department getting the additional duty, and most of the committee agreed with him.

After several minutes of talks, including discussions on whether the street and sanitation department should lay men off instead of sending them out to shovel private sidewalks, the committee followed Ald. Donald Colburn's advice: "Let's give ourselves a month to so to think this thing over. Hopefully we won't have any large snowfalls before then."

In other action the committee: — Delayed action on granting a liquor license to Anchor Inn of Wisconsin for the old Super Valu store on S. Commercial St., after hearing a report from Fire Chief Ronald Mertz that remodeling hadn't even started.

— Delayed action on drafting a policy on normal and emergency police boat operation after Malouf said he did not have it ready yet.

— Delayed action on selling fenced dog runs at city garage until the committee has a chance to find out what it would be selling for the $50 offer.

— Accepted and placed on file a letter from the American Association of Retired Persons asking for remodeling the old city hall and post office.

— Invited William Miller, park and recreation superintendent to the next meeting to explain the department's plan for development of the Cedar Street quarry.

— Granted a ten day permit to Hesser Olds to use a parking stall in front of the N. Commercial Street business to promote a tire sale.

Passenger Head tax helps airport 'pay its own way'

OSHKOSH — "Wittman" Field's revenues are substantial enough to finance its day-to-day operations and the $1 head tax is a logical further step to foster this "pay its own way" philosophy, Airport Manager Michael Brock has written the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce.

Brock's letter, dated Wednesday, included an invitation to the chamber to meet jointly with Brock at any time to discuss the merits and shortcomings of the county-owned airport.

The Chamber sent a letter criticizing the imposition of the head tax which was read to the county board at its Feb. 20 session. The board adopted an ordinance later in the meeting creating the tax, effective April 1.

The program will include light concert selections and a variety of popular and novelty numbers. Band director is Terry Schwonek.

There will be no admission charge and the public is invited.

INRECO sells its West Coast business

LOS ANGELES — INRECO, an insurance agency subsidiary of Post Corporation, has sold its West Coast business to California Excess, Inc.

Under the arrangement California Excess will act as West Coast agent for Post Corporation's underwriting subsidiary, All-Star Insurance Corp., Milwaukee. The sale will not affect INRECO's Midwestern business, operated out of its Chicago office.

Post Corporation, headquartered in Appleton, has two principal businesses: operation of newspapers and broadcasting stations and underwriting of unusual insurance risks. It has owned INRECO since 1970.

Retirement extended

KAUKAUNA — The police and fire commission has approved retaining Sgt. Charles Arnold on the police force through Dec. 31, 1973, at which time his retirement is to become effective.

Arnold will reach mandatory retirement age in June, but under state statute the city has the right to extend time for retirement. Statutes governing retirement age are established under the Wisconsin Retirement Plan for police and firemen.

Bills reaching legislature at record-setting pace

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The 1973 Wisconsin legislature, barely two months old, already appears to be on the way to passing up last session's record of 2,568 pieces of proposed legislation. Legislative aides said 594 proposals had been introduced in the Assembly, as of Friday, compared to 459 at the same date in the 1971 session, and 318 had been introduced to the Senate, compared to 259 in 1971.

Several of the bills duplicate each other, including at least four "news-men's shield" proposals and four proposals dealing with tax exemptions for churches. And, in some cases, the wording is exactly the same on different bills, with only the authors' names changed.

Figures produced by the aides showed that Milwaukee lawmakers are so far the most prolific bill producers.

Rep. Lloyd Barbee, D-Milwaukee, easily leads the field with nearly 100 measures ranging from legalizing polygamy to lifting the ban against fortunetelling.

Rep. David Berger, D-Milwaukee, is second with 63 proposals and Rep. Harout Sanasarian, D-Milwaukee, is third with 50.

Sen. Reuben La Fave, R-Oconto, leads the field in the upper house with 46 bills and Sen. Ronald Parys, D-Milwaukee is second with 41.

The large majority of proposals are not expected to become law.

Speech contest set by Optimist Clubs

NEENAH-MENASHA — The 1973 local Optimist oratorical contest will be held Monday, March 26, at the Ramada Inn. All boys and girls who did not reach their 16th birthday by Dec. 31, 1972, are eligible to compete.

For the first time this year the contest is open to girls. Rules are the same for all contestants, although separate contests will be held for boys and girls.

Winners of the local contest will compete against winners from other clubs in a zone-wide contest scheduled for April 18 at the Boys' Brigade.

Fourteen schools in the Neenah-Menasha area have been contacted. Copies of the rules and official entry blanks are available from Thomas Allcox. Deadline for entries is March 20.

The local contest is sponsored by the Breakfast and Noon Optimist Clubs of Neenah-Menasha.

Credit seminar set

WINNECONNE — A three session Credit Seminar, offered by the Fox Valley Technical Institute, will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 15 at Winneconne High School. Classes will be held on consecutive Thursdays.

Irving P. Muentner, cashier of the Winneconne County Bank, will lead discussions on initiating a credit system, control of credit, the Wisconsin Consumer Act and credit collection methods and procedures. The seminar should interest retail and service business personnel involved in consumer credit operations.

For further information, Robert Duxstad, FVTI-Appleton, can be contacted.

Welfare setups to be probed

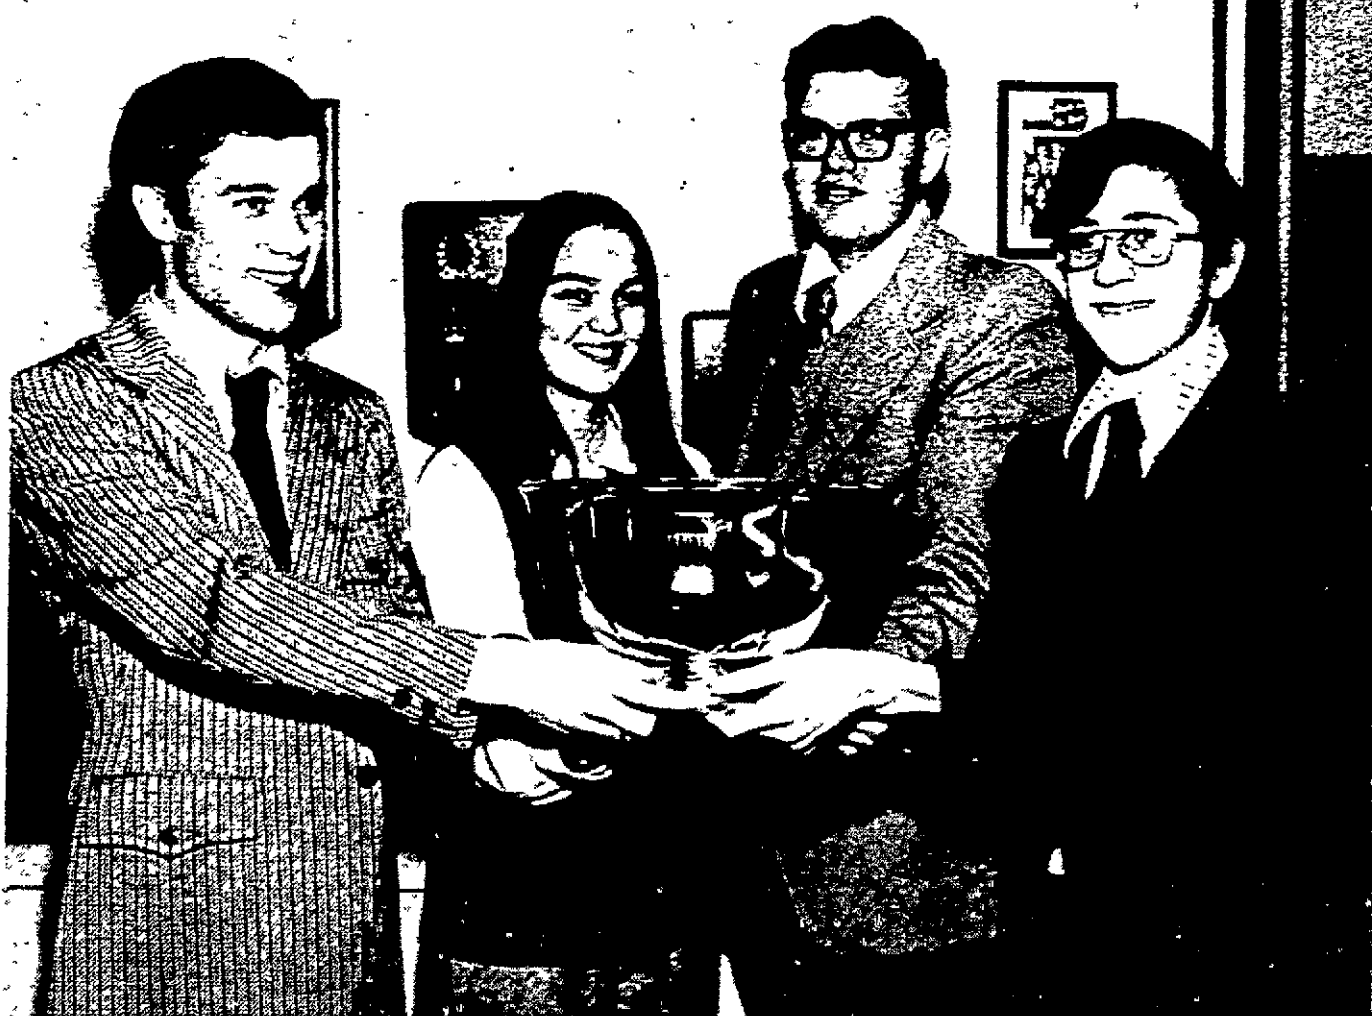

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Tentative plans for a federal study of welfare systems in Milwaukee, Dane and Grant Counties were disclosed Friday by a U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare official.

Mrs. Helen Cooper, an associate commissioner of the agency's Chicago regional office, said the probe would be aimed at welfare fraud and support from absent parents.

A team of four persons or less is expected to begin the study later this month, she said, and complete it by early July.

Police & fire beat

KAUKAUNA — Gary Heindel, 404 Depot St., reported to police that 11 racing pigeons which he kept in a coop at 219 Brothers St. were stolen Wednesday night. Several of the birds were hatching eggs and as a result Heindel said he could lose about 20 pigeons. No value estimate was made.

Pats survive Redmen's bid

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

OSHKOSH — Craig Martin, the smallest player on the court Friday night, sealed the biggest win in Appleton East's 6-year basketball history.

The 5-foot-8 Martin drilled a jump shot from the right corner with three seconds left in overtime to give the Patriots a 40-38 win over Sheboygan South in a stirring Oshkosh sectional tournament game before approximately 5,000 persons at Kolf Sports Center.

The Patriots (14-8), who have now won five straight games in their remarkable stretch drive, seek to make more history at 8:30 p.m. today when they take on Fond du Lac (18-4) in the finals. The winner qualifies for next week's state tournament in Madison.

East, which dominated the first three periods and dictated the game's tempo, found the tide changing in the fourth quarter. The Redmen (16-6) gradually hacked away at the Patriots' lead that once had reached 11 points and still stood at nine (31-22) at the outset of the fourth stanza. South, which finally overhauled the Pats (at 35-all and 37 all) was able to bring the momentum over to its side but was unsuccessful in separating the Patriots from their poise.

East remained cool on defense as South controlled the ball for the final 52 seconds of regulation time and survived a final desperation corner shot by Ken Meyer.

With the overtime period 58 seconds old, South's Jim Kerwin sank the second free throw of a 2-shot foul opportunity and the Redmen led for the first time in the entire game, 38-37.

The Tom Gossens-coached Patriots came back to tie it 21 seconds later, as Paul Callaway sank the front end of a 2-shot chance but missed the second. When Dale Nolden missed a field attempt with 1:01 left, it marked, for practical purposes, the final time South owned the basketball.

OSHKOSH — "Martin (Craig) was the big difference tonight. He had his best game. He saw the openings and went all the way," a happy but relieved Appleton East Coach Tom Gossens said after watching his Patriots edge Sheboygan South, 40-38, in overtime in the WIAA sectional tournament Friday night.

All Martin did was to hit seven baskets in eight tries, including the winning toss in the last few seconds, finishing with 19 points. Gossens said Martin was the third option on the play that produced the winning basket, that the first choices were to go inside.

"We needed one of these close ones again. Games like this are good for the kids, I think," the East coach added. "We missed our free throws (the Patriots) hit 10 of 21) and got away with it. I'm pleased with the win. At this stage of the season, I'll take it any way," Gossens continued.

The Patriots' first year coach stated that his club played good defensive ball in the first half but not so well in the second. He said one of the reasons could have been the longer court with the boys getting tired.

"We didn't shoot very well in the second half and they were hotter in the second than they were in the first," Gossens added. He felt that when high-scoring Dave Derus picked up four fouls in the third quarter, the Patriots should have been going inside at him more. Derus eventually fouled out with 2:02 left but the Redmen went on to tie the score and send the game into overtime with him on the bench.

Asked if he had any thoughts of using Dan Heinritz, who was a starter until being hurt early in January, Gossens answered that had Mark Bleier (who picked up four fouls) fouled out, he would have used the senior guard. He added that the system has changed since Heinritz was hurt and that he isn't too familiar with it yet.

"They're awfully big and awfully tough. We'll have our hands full," were his comments on Fond du Lac, tonight's championship foe. The Cardinals outlasted West Bend 57-48, in Friday's first game.

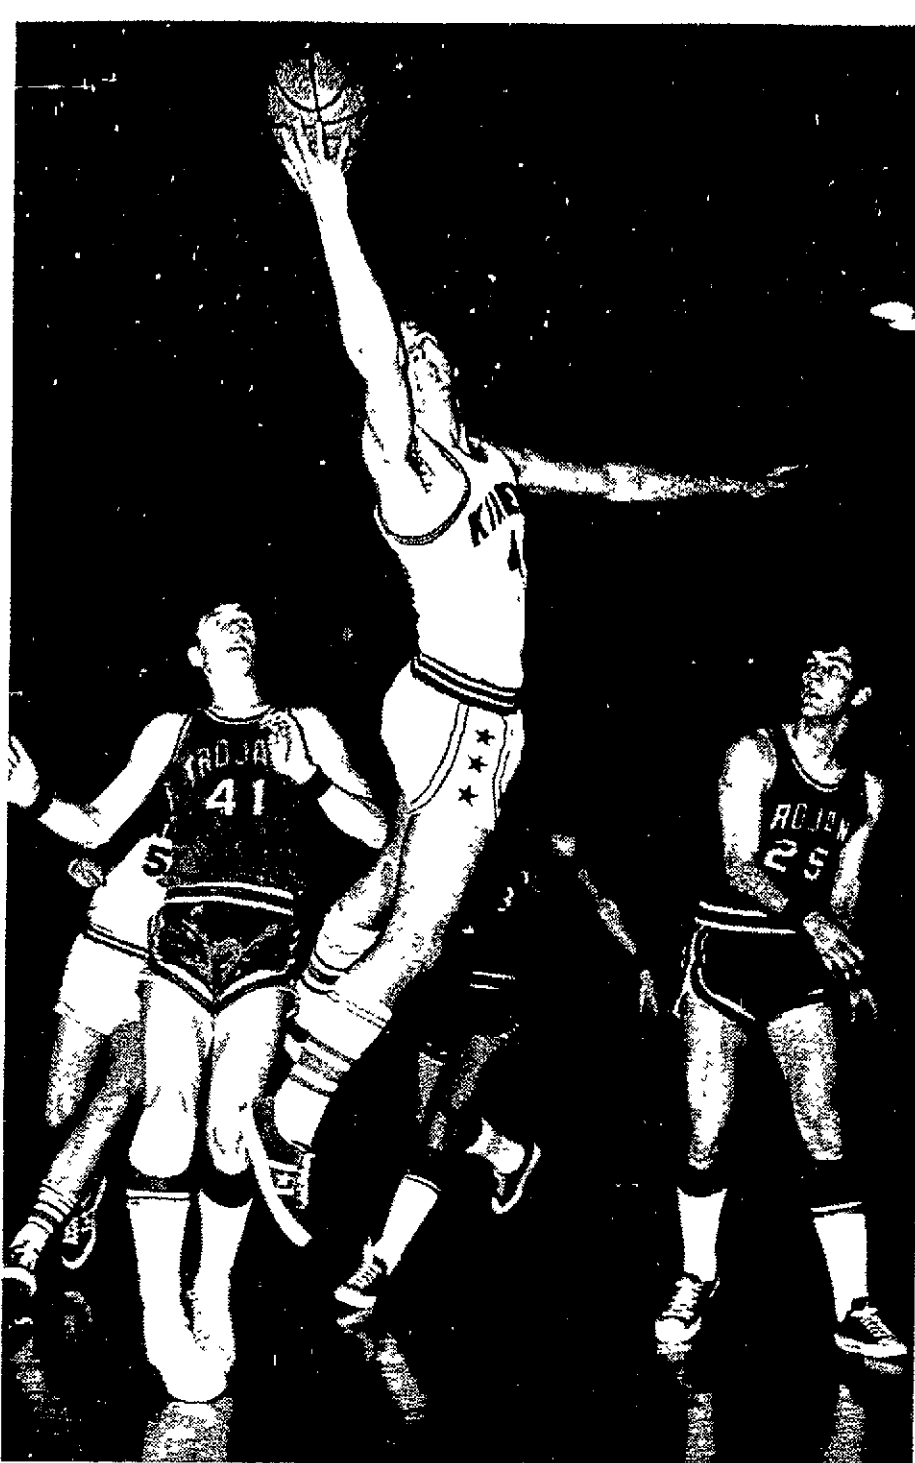

Gossens hinted that the Patriots might have to press because of Fondy's good outside shooting.

Similar sentiments were echoed by John Schumann of Sheboygan South. "Fond du Lac will battle them on the boards without any trouble," Schumann said, adding that the Cardinals will have to be able to keep their big men in the game.

Schumann, who understandably wasn't in a very talkative mood after seeing his Redmen come from a 9-point halftime deficit only to lose in overtime, took one look at the statistics and pointed to the shooting figures. "We shot 28 per cent. They hit 45 per cent, that was the difference," he declared.

The former Appleton Papermaker infielder was piqued at some of the calls made on Derus, his high scoring center. "Derus was called for three retaliation fouls," Schumann declared, explaining that often the officials don't see the

Falcons, Crivitz in Class B final

STEVENS POINT — Amherst and Crivitz posted semi-final round victories in the WIAA Class B Stevens Point Sectional here Friday night and will square off tonight at 8:30 p.m. for the right to advance to the state basketball tournament.

The Falcons (17-5) upended Niagara 58-37 on a 10-foot jump shot by Rick Stoltz with 10 seconds remaining in the game. Crivitz (20-2) sneaked past Thorp 54-53 by scoring the final 7 points of the contest.

Niagara (15-7) and Thorp (19-4) tangle at 7 p.m. for consolation honors.

Amherst lost a 13-12 lead late in the opening period and the Falcons trailed for the remainder of the contest until Stoltz connected from the right side of the free throw line.

With a torrid second quarter shooting display the Badgers opened up a 53-25 advantage at the half.

Cut deficit

But the Falcons cameback in the third segment, outscoring Niagara 17-12 in the 8-minute span to cut its deficit to 5 points (47-42) going into the fourth period.

In the final stanza, the Falcons applied a full court press which bothered the Marinette-Oconto Conference entry. Amherst was able to capitalize on the Badgers' mistakes and the Falcons slowly worked down the Niagara lead.

With 19 seconds left in the game, Amherst took a time out. Amherst Coach Bob Abbott then set up what would hopefully be the winning shot — by Stoltz — and the Falcons executed the play to perfection. John Van Nuys took the inbound pass and flipped the ball to Stoltz. . . and the Falcons were riding high.

Niagara quickly called a time out of its own, but the Badgers were not as fortunate as their opponent as a 30-foot desperation toss missed the mark.

Kimberly '5' tops Trojans

BY DAN VANDERPAS

GREEN BAY — Kimberly High school's Papermakers reeled off 16 straight points during a 5-minute span in the second half en route to posting a 53-44 victory over Green Bay Southwest's Trojans (16-6) in first round WIAA Class A sectional action in the Brown County Veterans Memorial Arena Friday night.

The win enabled Kimberly (20-2) to advance to the championship game against Manitowoc (20-2) in an 8:30 p.m. contest tonight. A crowd of 5,346 watched Friday night's encounters.

"We're not the best disciplined team around, but I'm happy with the outcome," an elated KHS Coach Jack Wippich said after it was over.

The Papermakers nursed a 1-point (22-21) advantage at halftime before Joe Berghuis, a 6-1 senior, ignited the offense in the third quarter. Berghuis fired in 10 of his team's 14 points on five baskets, as Kimberly outscored Southwest, 14-4, during that decisive eight minutes.

With 3:56 left in the third session, Trojan Mark Brost connected on a driving layup, lifting Southwest to a 25-24 advantage. But the Trojans' happiness over capturing the lead proved to be short-lived.

Ruys connects

During the ensuing five minutes, Chuck Ruys scored on a turn-around jumper and tip-in shot, Lee Reider counted two goals from medium range and Berghuis poured in four field shots from a myriad of angles on the court.

The surge zoomed Kimberly to a 40-25 lead with 5:51 to go until the final horn. "The ball just didn't drop for us during those minutes," Trojan Coach Steve Nault remarked. "And we couldn't get any rebounds."

Green Bay Southwest crawled back to within 10 markers (42-32) midway through the final eight minutes. But key baskets by Bob Van Grinsven and Dave Albers, and Randy Thiel's two free throws helped KHS maintain a 10-point edge (48-38) with 1:45 on the clock. Berghuis added a free shot 14 seconds later, before Ed Hanner collected two free throws and Brost scored after a steal, to cut the deficit to 49-42.

Then, as the final minute ticked away, Dave Reinke hit two free throws and Van Grinsven connected from the field to ice the verdict.

Southwest, with the help of three 15-footers by Pete Schlei, grabbed a 12-8 lead at the end of the first quarter. "We didn't penetrate well in the first quarter," Wippich commented. "But later when we began to pressure Schlei, he forced his shots and they didn't go in as often."

"Real hustler"

Regarding Berghuis' performance, the veteran Papermaker head man observed, "That Berghuis is a real hustler. He helped turn the game around for us. But I would also like to credit Van Grinsven, Reinke and Albers. They came in and did the job when we needed them."

Meanwhile, just down the hallway, Nault methodically sipped a coke as reporters fired questions his way. "They penetrated and we didn't—that made the difference," he assessed. "We just couldn't get the inside shots we wanted."

When asked if Kimberly was as physical a club as he expected, the Trojan mentor said, "They were physical all right. And when you get this far along in tournament play, that means a lot. When teams of equal size

Fondy defeats West Bend

OSHKOSH — Fond du Lac overcame an epidemic of 37 turnovers to outscore West Bend West High School, 56-47, in the semi-finals of the WIAA Sectional basketball tournament Friday night. The victory earned the Cardinals a berth opposite Appleton East in tonight's finals.

Fond du Lac, which boosted its record to 18-4, owned leads of up to 22 points in the third quarter and commanded a 45-27 advantage at the close of the segment.

Collecting 16 of the first 20 points of the last stanza, the Spartans reduced the margin to six at 49-43 with 2:37 left to play.

In the next two minutes, each team made three free throws for a 52-46 score. Then with 37 seconds remaining, Bill Smith clinched the victory for Fondy with his jump shot. The winners made two free throws to the Benders' one in the waining seconds.

Scoring honors for Fond du Lac went to Pete Johnson with 16 points. Smith and Dennis Sullivan each netted 12. Dave Eggert, West Bend's high scorer, led his team with 13 before fouling out with 2:20 left to play. Mike Rose added 10.

Helping to compensate for Fondy's misuses was its whopping 62-31 edge in the rebound department. Johnson led the way with 23. Eggert hauled down 10 for West Bend, which now has a 19-3 record.

FOND DU LAC (15-12 18-11—56) Doyle 0-0, Nehls 0-0, 1, Soberlich 3-3, Smith 6-0, 3, Sullivan 2-0, 5, Johnson 6-4, 1, Hovey 2-3, Totals 20-16-18, FTM — 8

Papermakers form blockade Ships float by Indians

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent staff writer

GREEN BAY — "The year of the Ships" is how Manitowoc fans view 1973.

Turnovers and fouls played an important part in keeping the "Year of the Ships" floating Friday as Manitowoc pulled out a 51-48 overtime win over Kewaunee in the Green Bay Sectional.

The story around Manitowoc is that the Ships aren't only destined to make it to state but are to win their third championship. The two previous titles came in 1963 and 1968. Five year differences.

Kimberly (20-2) now stands in the way of the Ships' state tournament aspirations. Manitowoc, also 20-2, will pit a contrasting deliberate offense against the Papermakers in the 8:30 p.m. championship game tonight at the Brown County Arena.

Kewaunee seemed to have the game safely tucked away with 1:20 left and a 46-42 lead. Manitowoc hadn't done anything for over two minutes, but then the game turned toward the Ships.

Kewaunee's Oddie Thor converted a pair of free throws at the 1:20 mark, but seconds later stellar junior forward-center Charley Novak fouled out and Gary Severson converted a one-plus-one.

Kewaunee got the ball on a rebound and tried to kill the clock for a final shot. Manitowoc again stole the ball and Mike Sullivan got a good start on the break for a 50-48 lead.

Novak was easily the outstanding player on the floor as he cleaned the boards, made key steals and showed tremendous power driving to the basket. The 6-5 junior scored 17 points, cleared 11 rebounds and his steals in the fourth period enabled the Indians to rally from a 40-35 deficit for a 46-42 lead.

"I think too often we give the credit to a boy who scored a lot of points and find fault with a boy who makes mistakes," a very disconsolate Bon Murphy said outside a somber Kewaunee dressing room.

Murphy, who led the Indians into their fourth straight sectional, said, "The difference was discipline. They were disciplined and we weren't. That fault lies with the coaches who should have them prepared in practice."

"Novak is one of the outstanding players in the area. Attitude-wise, I'd match him with anyone in the state. This whole team has had a great attitude even though they've been overlooked much of the season," Murphy said.

Niether Murphy, nor, Manitowoc's Brian Shaw would comment about the officiating which drew few complaints until late when both coaches were visibly disturbed by some calls.

Shaw pointed to Novak's fouling out as a key. "He's really a fine ballplayer. Those steals of his really hurt us."

"I think our depth again paid off. We were able to stay fresh and avoid any serious foul problems. We only had one foul in the first half. Our defense was stagnant and we didn't play with any emotion. Our defense picked up in the second half."

Manitowoc shot a sizzling 20 of 35 from the field, while Kewaunee connected on just 19 of 49. The losers held a 27-17 edge in rebounding. Each team made 19 turnovers.

Senerson led Manitowoc with 13 points, while Steve Skarda and Lindholm each contributed 10. Brusky added 12 to Novak's 17 for Kewaunee.

Thor, Mike Thompson and Novak left Kewaunee with little on the bench as all three fouled out. Forward Chuck Herzog fouled out for Manitowoc.

MANITOWOC (14-12 18-5—51) Severson 4-5, 1, Fisher 10-0, Sullivan 6-0, 2, Skarda 5-0, 1, Lindholm 5-0, Herzog 4-5, Wolford 1-2, Totals 20-11-12, FTM — 6

KEWAUNEE (10-10 12-12—48) Thor 2-2, 5, Brusky 5-2, 2, Thompson 1-2, Applegate 1-0, Cochran 0-0, Novak 7-3, Kudick 2-1, Totals 19-10-19, FTM — 4

Key steals

Kewaunee's attempt to freeze the ball failed when the ball was tipped to Severson who made an easy fast break basket to tie the game and then missed the 3-point attempt to make overtime necessary.

Two offensive fouls halted each team from a scoring attempt in the overtime. Bill Lindholm gave Manitowoc the lead on a driving layup, but Lynn Brusky tied the game on a pair of free throws with 2:02 left in the overtime.

UWGB duels Dallas '5'

By DICK KARBON

GREEN BAY — The University of Wisconsin-Green Bay, suddenly the cream of the midwest's small college crop, goes into the 32-team NAIA national tournament in Kansas City next week as the No. 4 seed.

UWGB 26-3 after having knocked off two ranked teams within its own district, faces Dallas Baptist at 2:45 p.m. Tuesday in the opening round.

Dallas is 27-11, having played a whopping total of 38 games, most of any national finalist.

Phoenix Coach Dave Buss confessed he is "very pleased with our seed."

Only unbeaten and No. 1 ranked Sam Houston State (27-0), Augustana of Illinois (25-1) and Kentucky State (25-4), which is seeking its fourth consecutive national championship, are seeded higher.

Marymount of Kansas, Fairmont State of West Virginia, Alcorn A & M of Mississippi and Maryland-Eastern Shore compete the list of the top eight seeds.

Dallas Baptist is the District 8 champion and like UWGB, it will be competing in the national tournament for the first time. Baptist is a strong athletic scholarship school of 1,300 students and it is the defending NAIA indoor track champion.

Also like Green Bay, Baptist has only recently become a 4-year institution. It was a junior college until 1965 and it competed in the national JC basketball tournament.

The Indians are a representative of the same district which sent Bishop College to the nationals last year. Bishop lost to Eau Claire in the first round.

Baptist competed in a district divided into North and South divisions. It won the South by beating Prairie View A & M, 80-74, in a playoff and then beat North champ Wayland Baptist two straight in a best of 3 series, 86-73 and 99-85.

The Indians are led by 6-foot-4 junior forward Stan Masters, who is averaging about 18 points and nine rebounds a game. Center Warren LeGrow is 6-7. LaGrow is shooting about 60 per cent from the field for 15 points a game.

Another of the Indian front men is Jim Beard, 6-5, who is just a shade off double digits in scoring, but he had 18 rebounds in a game with Prairie View, which started a lineup of 6-11, 6-9 and 6-5.

The Indians rotate guards in pairs, using Harry Clasboy and Bruce Hallins (Both 6-1) in one set and Skip Adams (6-1) and J.D. Wyner (5-10) in another.

A top reserve underneath is 6-7 Joe Wardell, who averages 10 points a game coming off the bench and recently had a 38-straight free throw binge interrupted.

Defense is the Indians strong suit, but their average of 75.7 points allowed is high compared to Green Bay's 52.1. Offensively, Baptist has scored about 80 points a game to Green Bay's 72.

The winner of the UWGB-Baptist game will play the winner of the Hastings, Neb., (25-4) vs. South Carolina State (15-12) game at 2:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Madison West earns 'state' berth

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Madison West needed overtime and spectacular clutch play by Brian Leigh to gain a repeat berth in the Wisconsin public high school basketball tournament Friday night, setting the tone for flurry of heartstopping sectional battles.

Leigh scored 23 points, including all seven of West's points in the extra period, as the Regents nipped Monona Grove 49-46 in the only state meet berth determined Friday.

West, beaten by Monona Grove in overtime in the finals of the same Madison sectional three years ago, will be one of eight Class A teams competing at the University of Wisconsin Fieldhouse next Thursday through Saturday. The seven other Class A teams and four Class B entrants will be determined in sectional finals tonight.

Leigh, 6-foot-1 senior guard, sank a jump shot with five seconds left in regulation to enable West to tie Monona Grove 42-42.

After Leigh staked the Regents to a 45-42 lead on a three point play early in overtime, Grove retaliated with two baskets for a 46-45 lead. But Grove missed a free throw and a long jumper by Leigh put West ahead to stay.

Grove missed another free throw, but won the tip on a jump ball called in the rebound scramble. However, a charging foul gave the ball to West and Leigh clinched the victory with two free throws with six seconds to go.

Waukesha broke to a 17-2 lead and buried Racine Horlick 78-45 behind Mark Delsman's 23 points. The No. 1 ranked Blackshirts will play Milwaukee Lincoln, 56-50 winner over Mukwonago.

Edgerton, a Cinderella team which had won 11 of 13 games after a 1-7 season start, bowed 54-43 to Sun Prairie, which broke open a tight game with 21 fourth quarter points. Sun Prairie's opponent at Whitewater will be Beloit Memorial, which routed Mukwonago 74-45.

Superior defeated La Crosse Logan 47-38 behind Robb Moody's 13 points and 15 rebounds. Superior will meet New Richmond, which overcame a 41-35 halftime deficit to tip Chetek 67-65.

Antigo and Shawano, Wisconsin Valley co-titlists, will meet in the Marshfield sectional finals. Antigo, a state meet entrant last year, spilled Nekeosa 54-44 behind 22 points by John Muraski and 17 by Jeff Lund. Dave Born totaled 18 for Shawano, which beat Merrill 54-45.

Milwaukee Marshall tipped Hartford 62-54 and will play at Brookfield against West Milwaukee, which downed Menomonee Falls North 44-40.

Milwaukee blasts cold-shooting Portland behind Abdul-Jabbar

BY DENNIS C. KOIS

Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Bucks Coach Larry Costello was called magnanimous, an honor accorded few coaches, after his Bucks took apart the Portland Trailblazers 116-96 Friday night in a National Basketball Association game that wasn't nearly as close as the final score.

"Larry's a very magnanimous guy because he took that big guy out of there," Blazer Coach Jack McCloskey said. "I didn't know if we were ever going to score."

Costello, exhibiting the "nobleness of soul" McCloskey was referring to, took his star center out with 2:38 remaining in the third quarter and Milwaukee ahead 87-55.

That "big guy," Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, had already scored 25 points, blocked eight shots and pulled in 12 rebounds, while the Blazers were having trouble finding the backboard.

Milwaukee outscored Portland 36-16 in the third period after holding a 58-44 halftime margin, and led after three 94-58.

After shooting 33 per cent from the floor in the first half, Portland froze instead of just going cold, hitting only 3 of 27 in the third period for 11.1 per cent.

The Blazer subs won the fourth quarter, 38-22, but it was way too late.

"Kareem really is an intimidator," McCloskey said. "We've been scoring an awful lot of points, but they made this our worst performance."

"The indicator of his value is our game here last time," he said of a 108-105, last-second Bucks' victory when Abdul-Jabbar didn't play. "Then we got shots inside and second shots, tonight we didn't. We executed poorly, we shot poorly, and they all played excellent defense."

The Bucks blocked nine shots, and McCloskey said he "thought it was 108. I know there were 100 intimidation."

Bob Dandridge added 23 points and Oscar Robertson 17 for Milwaukee, which held its 4½ game lead over Chicago in the Midwest Division when the Bulls dumped Philadelphia.

Sidney Wicks, who carried a 23.9 point average into the game, missed 13 of the 19 shots he took. He and Larry Steele each scored 14 for the Blazers, who lost their fourth consecutive game.

"As far as blocked shots it was his best game," Bucks Coach Larry Costello said of his 7-foot-2 center. "He had them all thinking in there."

"The blocked shots started a lot of our fast breaks," Abdul-Jabbar said. "They kept putting them up there and I was able to get them."

Abdul-Jabbar said the Blazers, who played an overtime loss at Atlanta the night before, might have been tired.

get together, strength can be a decisive factor."

Asked if he could have prepared his team better for a physically strong unit like Kimberly, Nault replied, "What are you going to do, lift weights for a summer and a half to get ready?"

Kimberly, sparked by Ruys, a 6-5 musclemann, Van Grinsven and Thiel, held a 38-17 rebounding edge.

Unofficial statistics revealed that the Papermakers converted 23 of 56 field shots for a 41.1 per cent rate of accuracy. Green Bay Southwest hit 16 of 40 for 40 per cent. The Trojans made only one of nine floor shots in the third period.

Berghuis topped KHS scorers with 15 points, while Thiel made 10. For Southwest, Brost hit 20, while Schlei garnered 13.

"It's just the end of the season for them, and it's hard to get motivated," he said.

Asked if he felt any sense of relief near the end of the regular season with a playoff berth clinched, Abdul-Jabbar said: "No, it actually works against us. It's kind of hard these last few because you have to play them and then start over."

Portland took 26 more shots than the Bucks, and pulled down 66 rebounds to 60 for Milwaukee. But Milwaukee made four more baskets than the Blazers, and kept the losers at bay with a fast break and defense that wouldn't quit.

"They're a great offensive team," Costello said. "They score about the same as we do, but the difference is our defense—and Kareem."

In other NBA action, Chicago blasted Philadelphia 104-84, Baltimore edged Houston 109-104 and Boston beat Los Angeles 119-110.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky beat Virginia 119-113, Denver stopped New York 120-105, Utah beat Dallas 114-105 and Indiana edged Carolina 110-105.

Portland, led by Sidney Wicks' 14 points, made only three shots in the third quarter.

The Chicago Bulls rallied behind the shooting of Bob Love in the second half and went on to bury the Philadelphia 76ers.

Tom Van Arsdale, who tallied 23 points, led an early Philadelphia drive that put the 76ers ahead at the end of the initial quarter. The Bulls lead at the intermission 45-41.

Love finished with 26 points and Chet

Walker added 17. Leroy Ellis had 16 and Fred Boyd 15 for Philadelphia.

Elvin Hayes hit three crucial baskets in the final four minutes to lead the Baltimore Bullets over the Houston Rockets.

Baltimore broke away from a 96-96 tie with five minutes left to play, with Hayes scoring nine of the Bullets' final 12 points.

Calvin Murphy and Mike Newlin scored 21 points each for the Rockets and Jack Marin added 14. Archie Clark, the games high scorer with 26, was followed by Bullet teammates Mike Riordan with 21 and Hayes with 19.

Dave Cowens scored 34 points and grabbed 19 rebounds in leading the Celtics over the Lakers.

Cowen completely dominated Wilt Chamberlain as the Celtics led by as much as 17 points in the fourth quarter. The Lakers staged a rally and crept to within six points with a minute and a half to play but the Celtics prevailed.

John Havlicek added 24 points for the Celtics who swept the season series from the Lakers. Jerry West scored 28 points for the Lakers and Gail Goodrich added 25.
